Notes on Bastille Day

Usually, in Paris, it is only those American tourists who liked the "Tale of Two Cities," or who have read Carlyle and others on the French Revolution, who go to the old quarter of Saint Antoine to see the site of Bastille.

There is not, in truth, much to see.

The revolutionists succeeded in capturing the old prison, once a fort, on July 14, 1789. It was not strongly defended, but even so would have held out, had not some of the artillery forces in the city deserted to the rebels and begun a bombardment. The governor surrendered, on promise of safety, but he was killed on the way to the Hotel de Ville and his head stuck on a pike.

On the following day the wreckage of the building was razed by the victory-crazed mobs. Today there is only the outline of the old structure, painted in a neat line of white paint. There is, about in the center, a lofty column of bronze dedicated to the martyrs of the revolutions of 1789 and of 1830.

Symbol

The Bastille was, on July 14, 1789, and is now, a symbol of tyranny. It had long been a fortress for criminals and for those who had incurred the wrath of the kings. The prisoners were almost never brought to trial. They remained in the gloomy fortress all their lives. Some were put in as children. Many went there because they had offended one of the mistresses of the king or some prominent person at the court. Some were placed in small cages, and kept there for long years.

Most of the better-known prisoners in the Bastille were writers . . . sent there for criticizing the kings and their doings. It is a commonplace thread of history that, once persons come to power, they begin to think they are above criticism, and that it is, somehow, illegal to show up their knavery.

So, almost every journalist who goes to Paris, and every writer, journeys out to the site of the Bastille and stands there thinking and, maybe, dedicating himself to rebellion against tyranny. And then he buys flowers from one of the several old women who sell them thereabouts, places them on the base of the statue, and then goes into one of the small bistros in the neighborhood. There he drinks a "fine" to the revolution of 1789 and of 1830 and goes on his way, a duty done. But one who thinks there also recalls the words responsibility and principle.

The French Revolution was much of a failure because it lacked any management, or executive direction. This has been, in a sense, the failure of France ever since. The excesses of unguided revolutionaries, and the tyranny of the dictators who followed, caused the republic to place the chief executive in a sort of political bastille.

In a sense, the French revolution was an outgrowth of the American. Some of those who had assisted the British colonies in North America to rebel and win their freedom were a part of the French rebellion, which got so much out of hand. In America we had, though it may seem overly pious and smug to say so, a strain of morality in those leaders who directed our revolution. George Washington, Ben Franklin, Adams and all the others who were an integral part of it, had before them the Declaration of Liberty.

Massacre

In France in 1789 and the bloody years thereafter, until Napoleon came, the mob and all its outrages were tolerated. The most dreadful demagogues were allowed full sway. Massacre followed massacre. For two gore-smeared years the blood letting went on, matching any horror of the old Bastille.

History of this sort teaches those interested in freedom the importance of principle, and the necessity for citizens to observe as citizens the obligations of humanity and justice.

This can be the further simplified.

It is the old story of law and order. If we ever grow sympathetic toward the mob, when it opposes the principles of justice and humanity, we too will destroy our system of government.

It is necessary to remember that the American Revolution had this principle from the very beginning and that the republic was based on it.

LILLIPUTIANS LABOR

Old 290 Runs Late On Its Final Trip

By FRANK WELLS

There was an air of Lilliput about Pryor road Sunday afternoon as giant Gulliver—this time locomotive 290—was dragged slowly by relatively small machines and men toward its final resting place at Lakewood Park.

Old 290 was, for one of the few times in its career of railroading, behind schedule by several hours. The engineers of the 836th Engineer Battalion (Heavy Construction), Army reservists who are the mighty "Lilliputians" in this move, had figured to have the steam engine at Lakewood by late Sunday afternoon.

"We'll get it out to the park by sometime Monday," Lt. Col. John E. Bing, commanding officer of the unit, said Sunday. "Then sometime late Tuesday or early Wednesday we'll have the engine in place."

Hundreds of Atlantans, including a number of retired railroad men, came out Sunday to watch the slow and careful "leap-frogging" of the engine down Pryor Road. The engineers are using two 78-foot sections of track. After the engine rolls from one section to the other the rear section is moved around in front by cranes —muscle power on the part of the engineers—and bolted in front of the section on which the engine is resting.

Then an Army prime-mover, a giant machine with six wheels and a powerful winch, starts taking in a cable attached to the front coupling of 290. The engine moves slowly forward.

"We've got the transfer of track sections down to about 30 minutes now," Arthur T. Anderson, an engineer who is acting in an advisory capacity to the Army reservists, said. "And we'll lop some minutes off of that time as we move on down the road and the job gets better known to the men."

Col. Bing said that there "aren't any books you can read to

De Gaulle Vows Link For Algeria

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

PARIS—Premier Charles de Gaulle opened the door Sunday to the inclusion of Algeria in a new federal system linking France and her overseas territories.

He did so in a radio message to the nation's overseas possessions on the eve of France's national holiday commemorating the storming of the Batstille and the start of the French revolution on July 14, 1789. It appeared to be the general's clearest expression of his intentions on the future of Algeria since he took office June first.

VAST AND FREE

"We are going toward a vast and free community," de Gaulle said. "In 1958 we must build new institutions, establish the links of our union in the federal manner and organize a grand political, economic and cultural entity that will answer to the conditions of modern life and progress.

"I must not fail to say that with metropolitan France and the overseas departments, with west and equatorial Africa, with Madagascar, Djibouti, New Caledonia and French Oceania, the place of Algeria, so dear and so torn, is marked out with a choice place."

FALLS SHORT

However, because Algeria itself is legally a department of France and because the general failed to specifically define what he meant by "choice place," his message fell short of being an outright call for a federal relationship between France and her rebellious North African holding, in the view of informed observers.

Standstill Is Clamped On Cyprus

British Seek Halt To Bloody Feuding

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The British governor of Cyprus cracked down Monday with drastic security measures in an effort to halt the murderous warfare raging between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

A general standstill order was issued and all towns on the seething island were put under a round-the-clock curfew.

The order amounts to an almost complete halt in movement on an island-wide scale. The only exceptions are public officers and employes in essential services who hold curfew passes. Everyone else on the island is required to remain indoors.

BLOODY WEEK

The order, the most severe ever taken on Cyprus in three years of violence and bloodshed, followd a week of bloody outbursts in which tolls of dead and wounded mounted sharply in shooting and knife attacks.

Two British soldiers were killed Sunday night and two were wounded in what officials described as unintended shooting. The soldiers were members of a British army group scaling a rock face at Lefkonico, 20 miles east of Nicosia, on a hunt for Greek Cypriot underground EOKA fighters.

First reports said one soldier's automatic weapon went off, killing two of his companions and wounding two others.

The death toll among islanders in the factional fighting rose to 50 dead and more than 100 wounded since the latest outburst of fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots began June 8.

Of the dead officially listed, 30 are Greek Cypriots and 20 are Turkish Cypriots.

The latest island killings included three Turkish Cypriot shepherds found shot dead in fields near Famagusta, and a 50-year-old Greek Cypriot stabbed to death by a street mob that also wounded his wife in the Nicosia suburb of Omorphita.

3 CYPRIOTS FALL

Two other Turkish Cypriots and another Greek Cypriot were reported killed in the day's fighting in other areas but there were no details immediately.

Two dozen persons died in last week's fighting, six of them Saturday.

They made an unprecedented joint appeal for peace Saturday and curfews were extended at spots throughout the island.

The appeal was signed by Mayor Themistocles Dervis of Nicosia, the ranking Greek Cypriot leader on the island, and Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, chief Turkish Cypriot representative.

6 Drown in Lake As Family Party Ends in Tragedy

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — Six persons, including three children, drowned Sunday, bringing to a tragic close a carefree fishing outing for two families.

Sheriff Harold Woodson said the victims were thrown from their 14-foot wooden boat when the craft struck a log or stump on Benson Lake, about 12 miles south of here. Only a woman and a small dog survived.

The sheriff identified the dead as David Imler, 44; his wife, about 40; their two daughters, about 3 and 5; Otis Henry, 45, and his son, 5.

41 Youths in Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—A 41-member American youth exchange delegation arrived Sunday for a first-hand look at the daily life of their Soviet counterparts. A similar Soviet group now is in the United States.

Rheumatism Robot Kills Its Inventor

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Charles Werly, 52-year-old Swiss inventor, called in a group of specialists Saturday to demonstrate his new electric-wave apparatus for curing rheumatism.

Werly fitted the machine on himself, switched on the current —and died. The watching doctors said he was killed by a 220-volt charge passing through his body.

1.27 Inches Rain Hit Here in Hour; Crops in Danger

Noon Traffic Is Snarled By Deluge

A downpour which dumped 1.27 inches of rain on the waterlogged Atlanta area within an hour Sunday stranded some motorists and added damage to the state's truck crops.

Motorists were stalled in shallow pools on some low-lying thoroughfares in Atlanta, and residents began pumping out basements after the midday deluge.

Most seriously hurt by the excessive rainfall were the Georgia farmers, whose tomatoes, watermelons and cantaloupes are periled.

Much of the tomato crop has been ruined by the rains, which followed on the heels of a severe drought in south Georgia in mid-June, Archie Langley, head of the state crop reporting service, said. Excess moisture causes the fruit to burst and spoil.

CORN, WHEAT, TOBACCO

The record corn, wheat and tobacco crops in the southern portion of the state have not been damaged by the rainfall, he said.

No let up is seen in the rains. The weatherman forecasts continued afternoon and evening showers over the state.

The mercury will range from 68 to 88 both Monday and Tuesday. Atlanta's high was 82 Sunday, the low 69.

The rains, which officially began a day-to-day schedule July 3, broke a severe drought which parched many sections of the state.

But the rains, needed so badly, brought with them a multitude of woes for some Atlantans.

PAVING HALTED

One paving firm reported the rains have virtually halted paving work. E. J. Kelly of MacDougald-Warren, said they were rained out all but two days last week.

The building trades have been hard hit.

Typical was the report of T. T. Jones Construction Co., who said work is practically stopped on the Baptist Church in Chamblee. "We

Goldfine Investigators Are Calling 4 More

By ALLEN DRURY

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—Rep. Harris (D-Ark) disclosed Sunday that he had signed subpoenas for four additional witnesses to appear before the House legislative oversight subcommittee in the investigation of industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

Appearing on the NBC-TV program, "Meet the Press," Harris also rejected as an attempt to divert the subcommittee a reported plan by Goldfine's lawyers to seek a ruling that the subcommittee is exceeding its jurisdiction in going into his financial affairs.

GIFTS TO ADAMS

Harris is chairman of the subcommittee, which has developed testimony that Goldfine gave gifts to presidential assistant Sherman Adams during a period when Goldfine companies were involved in cases before the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission. Harris is also chairman of the parent Commerce committee.

He pointed out this fact Sunday, hinting strongly that there was little likelihood the Commerce committee would in any way discipline the subcommittee should the Goldfine lawyers request it to.

Harris' statement that he had signed subpoenas for additional witnesses to appear indicated that there may be still further sensational developments in a case which has produced its full share of them. He refused to disclose the names of the individuals for whom the subpoenas had been prepared.

BACK TUESDAY

Goldfine is scheduled to resume the witness stand Tuesday. Harris signed last week a subpoena directing production of account books that might clear up the mystery of a part of some $776,000 in bank checks that were purchased by Goldfine firms and are still uncashed. The subcommittee, however, is holding this subpoena in abeyance in the hope that it can work out a satisfactory arrangement with Goldfine's lawyers to produce the books.

The subcommittee, by serving a subpoena on Goldfine, has

Roof Collapses; 100 Are Spared

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The roof of a huge department store collapsed in a violent lightning storm Sunday as 100 employes taking inventory scurried to safety.

There were no injuries. City building inspector John Roker said indications were the steel-supported roof of the block-square J. M. Field Store had been struck by lightning.

Youth Eggs Farmer On, Wins Chick

WALESBY, England (AP) — Mike Devine, 19-year-old college student from Newport Beach, Calif., flew 6,000 miles to ask a poultry farmer here, "Can I marry your daughter?"

"We admired his pluck," said farmer James Hampsall, whose blonde 18-year-old daughter Yolande is studying with Devine at Orange Coast Junior College at Costa Mesa, Calif., "So we changed our minds and gave them our blessing."

The wedding is fixed for the village church here July 26.

Under British law, Yolande needed her parents' consent to wed because she is under 21. They wrote her: "You're too young."

But she had already bought her wedding dress. So Devine purchased two airline tickets and they flew to meet her parents. That did it.

"We thought it was just a boy-and-girl romance," said Mrs. Hampsall. "But as soon as they arrived we realized they were very much in love."

Cuba Ready To Release All Captives

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Rear Adm. Robert B. Ellis said Sunday night he expected the evacuation of U.S. servicemen hostages held by Cuban rebels to begin at 2 p.m. Monday.

Ellis, commander of the U.S. Guantanamo naval base, said he had received the word on the expected release from U.S. Consul Park Wollam, who has been in the hills negotiating with the rebels.

The Fidel Castro-led rebels seeking to overthrow the regime of President Fulgencio Batista still hold 29 American servicemen captive.

Ellis said he was told by Wollam: "Evacuation of our men will commence at 2 p.m. tomorrow and we are hopeful all will be released."

If the evacuation goes off without a hitch, all the Americans may be freed within four days, observers here believed.

Civilian hostages and one serviceman already released by the rebels have been moved out of the mountains of eastern Cuba by helicopter in small groups.

Earlier Sunday a Cuban air force plane forced down a U.S. Marine Corps "Flying Boxcar" at Santiago, Cuba, in a "misunderstanding." The aircraft and its crew of nine were released a few hours later and returned to the American naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

A Navy spokesman said the whole affair was a misunderstanding and that neither the crew nor plane were harmed.

Marietta Flier, Gas Out, Lands On the 4-Lane

A Marietta pilot escaped injury Sunday afternoon when a fuel shortage forced him to make an emergency landing on the four-lane highway north of Marietta.

The pilot, Robert Crittenden of 301 Gramling St., Marietta, said he was flying over Kennesaw Mountain when his engine began "sputtering and coughing." Crittenden said he knew immediately that he was out of fuel, although the gauge showed a quarter of a tank.

He landed in the southbound lane near Bell's Ferry road. Damage to the Piper Cub was estimated at $300. The plane was pulled off the highway.

Good Reason To Want to Grow: The Bigger Kids Can Eat More

By ART LINKLETTER

"If I could have a wish, I wish I had a giant chicken so big it could hatch the world."

A 5-year-old is talking. He's playing the favorite game of pretending, revealing an innermost wish, as—

"Are you having a good time today?"

"Oh, yes sir," replied a 7-year-old joyfully. "This is lots of fun."

"What do you like best about TV City: the cameras, the stages, the lights?"

"I like the blonde at the front desk."

The 4-year-olds are completely delightful in their artless response to "if you could be" questions. Here are a few samples:

"I'd like to be a fish 'cause I like to wag my tail when I take a bath."

"I'd like to be 6. I'm tired of being 5. I've been 5 for a whole year."

"I'd like to be growed up. I want to see what it's like."

"I like to play army, but I'm getting tired of it. I'm always the enemy."

"I'd like to be 45 so I could watch TV until 30 o'clock at night."

Pure, joyous untrammeled ignorance is the basis for an average 5-year-old's concept of the world.

"This summer I'm going to the bottom of the world to see what it would be like if you fell off."

"And where, do you suppose, is the bottom of the world?"

"Oh, it's a long way off. Texas, I think."

I want to go to Kansas because that's where my mother and daddy are going to get married sometime.

I want to go downtown.

What's the first thing you'd do if you got lost downtown?

Holler!

Here's a day-dream that must have blitzed them at the next faculty meeting:

"What animal would you like to be, Bobby?"

"A big mean lion."

"Why?"

Has Vandiver Put Griffin Into Fray?

By WILLIAM A. BATES

Constitution Political Editor

Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver's opening campaign speech may force Gov. Griffin to take a hand in the gubernatorial contest this year after all.

While he made no direct mention of Griffin, Vandiver's speech at Dublin amounted in many respects to a frontal assault on the Griffin administration—particularly on the subject of honesty in government.

William M. Bates

What the lieutenant governor failed to spell out in so many words, his partisan audience filled in with its own imagination. It did so with enthusiasm.

There was no question in anybody's mind who heard the speech that the Griffin administration was Vandiver's major target. It has, therefore, been offered up as an issue in the campaign.

The next move is Griffin's.

If he runs true to form, he is not likely to remain silent to the attacks on his administration. Griffin is acutely sensitive to criticism of his administration, especially when the question of dishonesty and wrongdoing is raised. Vandiver's speech may well force Griffin to reevaluate

A 3-Hour Heart Massage Revives Man

CHICAGO (AP)—A man brought back to life after his heart stopped beating for three hours was given a 50-50 chance to live Sunday.

Thomas Ferguson, 32, a truck driver, appeared at Dr. Clarence J. O'Reilly's suburban Palos Park office Saturday night, complaining of chest pains. Before the doctor could examine him, Ferguson collapsed and his heart stopped beating.

Dr. O'Reilly telephoned firemen, then cut open his patient's chest and began massaging. A fireman helped.

Police from five suburbs cleared the way for an ambulance racing nearly 90 m.p.h. to deliver an electrical heart stimulator from a hospital.

Dr. O'Reilly said Ferguson did not breathe and his heart did not beat during the long attempt to save him. "He didn't bleed when I made the incision in his chest," he said.

Dr. O'Reilly said Ferguson was in a state of practical death which would have become permanent within five or seven minutes if his heart had not been massaged.

Oxygen was given while Ferguson was speeded to a hospital. His heart resumed normal rhythm shortly after midnight.

Ferguson was on the borderline of shock and in a very critical condition in the hospital Sunday, Dr. O'Reilly said.

Though he had assisted in one such operation, Dr. O'Reilly had never performed one himself.

"It was the only way to save him," he said. "From what I've read in medical literature, I thought I had a chance."

A-Tests May Be Last So U.S. Takes Gambles

AEC Hopes for Big Advances In Case of an International Ban

By JOHN S. FINNEY
(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

GENEVA—While refusing to commit itself diplomatically, the United States is proceeding on the assumption that the current atomic tests in the Pacific may be the last it will conduct.

In the test series now drawing to an end at the Eniwetok Proving Grounds, the United States is taking certain technically adventurous gambles—gambles that it would not take if there were not a possibility that an international agreement might be reached to suspend atomic tests.

By gambling on certain experiments, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense department hope to take some big jumps forward in weapons development, so as to be prepared in the coming years if a test suspension prevents the development of new weapons.

SINCE APRIL

Thus far, the gambling has paid off in the Hardtack test series which has been under way at Eniwetok since April.

As is inevitable with any such gambling approach, there have been setbacks with some of the tests proving to be failures.

Some of the tests, however, have been marked successes, representing considerable advances in atomic weapons technology. The advances have come in reducing the radioactive fallout from atomic weapons—part of the development of the so-called "clean bomb"—and in reducing the size of the weapons while maintaining or increasing their explosive yield.

The development of "cleaner" and smaller weapons, particularly for defensive purposes, has been one of the major objectives of the Hardtack series.

MORE ADVENTUROUS

A secondary factor behind the gambling approach is that the current test series is under the heady influence of the Livermore Laboratory of the University of California.

The Livermore Laboratory, whose scientists took the lead in development of the hydrogen bomb, has traditionally had a more adventurous approach to weapons development than the long-established Los Alamos laboratory, whose scientists took the lead in development of the atomic bomb.

The Livermore laboratory is now under the direction of Dr. Edward Teller, who played a major role in the development of the hydrogen bomb and who is one of the leading scientific opponents of a test ban. Along with Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, one of the U.S. representatives at the current technical talks here, Dr. Teller has advanced the concept that, with several more years of testing, it would be possible to develop small hydrogen weapons with virtually no fallout.

EAST-WEST TALKS

The deliberate gambling approach in the Hardtack test series points up the dilemma facing the United States in the current East-West technical talks on policing an international agreement to suspend atomic tests.

Despite continual prodding by the Soviet Union, the United States has refused to give any formal commitments that the technical talks would lead to diplomatic negotiations to suspend atomic testing.

Within the U.S. delegation here, however, it is appreciated that if the technical talks reach a successful conclusion, as now seems possible, the United States will be under heavy psychological pressure to take the next step and negotiate a suspension of nuclear weapons tests.

Suez Canal Becomes All Nasser's

GENEVA (UPI) — The Suez Canal became the uncontested property of the United Arab Republic Sunday with the signing of an agreement on compensation between the U.A.R. and the old canal company.

A controversy, which assumed crisis proportions when Anglo-French forces invaded Egypt in November, 1956, because of the seizure of the canal, reached its formal end at a signing ceremony behind closed doors.

Governor Abdel Ghalel El Emary of the U.A.R. National Bank signed for his country and Georges Picot signed for the old Suez Canal Company, of which he is president.

Under the agreement published earlier this month, the U.A.R. will pay the company compensation of 28,300,000 Egyptian pounds. But 5,300,000 pounds are considered to have been paid already, since shipping tolls for that amount have been withheld from the U.A.R. pending final agreement.

This leaves 23,000,000 Egyptian pounds, or $66,045,824.80 for the U.A.R. to pay at the official rate of $2.875,576 to the Egyptian pound.

Soviets Are Dedicated To Higher Education

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

PITTSBURGH—The Soviet Union and its people have dedicated themselves to higher education with "deadly seriousness."

The intensity of their efforts must "inspire their allies and give very serious pause to any nation which finds itself in a competitive position."

This was reported Sunday by the chairman of a group of eight American educators who have just completed a two-week study of higher education in the Soviet Union.

The chairman is Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh. He cabled the preliminary report of the group's finding from Paris to his office in Pittsburgh Sunday.

Two things deeply impressed the group, Dr. Litchfield said. "First, there is almost universal belief in the Soviet Union in the value of higher education. Second, the Soviets are willing to pay the very high costs that are involved in money, in plant, in human effort."

As a result, he said, "they have accomplished a tremendous amount in a relatively brief period of time and with their determination they will continue to progress at an impressive rate."

However, Dr. Litchfield said the group had "serious reservations" about what the Russians were attempting to achieve and the way they were doing it.

"We are in fundamental disagreement with an educational philosophy which educates the individual exclusively in the interest of the monetary notions of what the state requires," he said. "Relatively little importance is attached to individual growth for its own sake."

There is no effort in Soviet higher institutions of learning to provide the student a liberal education "as we know the term," he said.

This came about, he said, "partially as a result of the concern for education as a way of serving the state and in part because of the limited role of the individual as a citizen."

Other highlights of the report were:

1. The Soviet government shows its "deep commitment" to higher education in many ways. It offers many scholarships so that virtually all "superior men and women" are able to attend universities. Salaries and prerequisites for teaching and research personel are among the highest in the nation.

2. Students regard higher education as of tremendous importance. Two to three times as many apply as are accepted.

3. Industry releases its employes at full pay for more than 250,000,000 man hours each year in order to permit the workers to do work in universities.

Adlai Talks to Sailor On Leningrad Tour

By MAX FRANKEL

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R.—Adlai Stevenson attracted considerable attention Sunday during a sightseeing tour of this Baltic seaport.

His entourage, looking much like an election campaign party back in the United States, streamed through historic churches and palaces amid a bevy of photographers and attentive officials sent from Moscow.

The man in the center, in a tweed sport jacket, was flashing ready smiles before photogenic monuments, intently surveying sparsely clad bathers and shaking hands with a baby in the luxurious new subway.

To tell the curious that he was Adlai Stevenson of Illinois was not enough. But to describe him as the Democratic party's standard bearer against President Eisenhower aroused knowing nods.

Stevenson spent his first full day of a three-week tour of the Soviet Union tiring out his hosts and satisfying what appeared to be a boundless curiosity. Only the speech-making of a campaign trip was missing. Stevenson had vowed just to look and listen on this trip.

GROUP IMPRESSED

The visitor was impressed by this city's romantic setting astride rivers and canals on the Bay of Finland, by its broad squares and grand Italian renaissance architecture.

At the end of the day he was impressed, too, he said, by the construction efforts of the Soviet authorities, their devotion to restoring Czarist shrines, their extravaganse in building the subway and what he called their poor taste in the design of new buildings.

Stevenson said the day had shattered one of his preconceptions of Soviet life. He saw great crowds in long queues waiting to enter the Hermitage Art Museum and the Kazan Cathedral, now an ani-religious museum, thronging to a Russian Orthodox service at the Alexander Nevsky Monastery, wating for a chance to take a boat ride on the Neva River and bathing in front of the splendid Peterhof Estate outside of town.

Leningraders were enjoying their first sunny Sunday in many weeks and Stevenson thought it presented a rather "festive" picture. Obviously he concluded, not all life here is "dour."

SMALLER IN STATURE

He found Russians generally smaller in stature than he had expected, but this physical appraisal was the only one he permitted himself. He is traveling with a party of seven, including two of his sons, Borden and John Fell.

Stevenson managed to speak with only one Soviet family. He ducked away and into a neighboring compartment on a subway train this evening for a chat with a seaman, his wife and daughter. The sailor said he served aboard a herring trawler that sailed to Greenland and Iceland on three-month voyages. When in town, he lives with his family in one room.

The sailor seemed stiff at first, but three stations after the talk had begun he was speaking freely of his plans for a larger family and offered his daughter's hand to the experienced baby-greeting visitor.

SPACIOUS CARS

Leningrad's subway, although built in the post-Stalin years, is as monumental as its Moscow prototype. Some of its stations have glass and marble pillars, huge chandeliers and mosaics proclaiming peace for the world. Stevenson told his hosts that he liked the cleanliness and ventilation in the stations and the spacious subway cars.

He could not understand, however, he added, why so much money and effort had been devoted to decorative frills. "Economy is one of the things we still have to learn from you Americans," said a Leningrad official.

Stevenson said later that he had been overwhelmed by this rare tribute to a nation normally accused of waste.

Shooting Stars Catch, Pass on U.S. Messages

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people just wish upon a shooting star. But scientists are making them talk—making them send messages hundreds of miles between cities at hundreds of words a minute. It's done by bouncing radio signals off the fleeting trails left by the shooting stars.

At least one scientist thinks the dust from shooting stars supplies the seeds to make rain 30 days later.

Still others are trying to make a census of these celestial visitors, both the visible and invisible ones.

TINY BITS

Shooting stars, of course, are not falling stars at all but are meteors—tiny bits of stone, metal or ice zooming into the earth's atmosphere from space. Some are the size of dust specks, some like grains of sand, some as big as peas. A very few are huge, weighing tons.

You see them as streaking flame painted across the night sky. They travel so fast—up to 100,000 m.p.h. or better—that air friction makes them glow or burn.

They also create trails of ionized or electrified air 60 to 100 miles above the earth. These electrical trails can become mirrors to reflect and transmit radio waves from one place on earth to another.

The electrified trail may last only a split second, or sometimes time to transmit a lot of information in messages on magnetic tap or from film.

Most meteors aren't visible to the naked eye, but they are so numerous that one estimate is that at least 1,000 tons of meteor dust fall upon the earth every day.

Prepared messages have been sent via meteors in experiments by Canadian and American scientists, and perhaps others also.

CONTINUOUS SIGNAL

In one experimental system, a weak, continuous signal is broadcast toward a point in the sky. When a meteor trail comes along, it reflects a strengthened signal to a receiver station hundreds of miles away. The receiver then can instantly flash back a go-ahead-and-transmit signal, and record the broadcast message.

The receiver can be sending information to the initial transmitter station at the same time.

The meteor talk provities potential new channels for human communication. Theoretically, the messages could always get through whenever there were meteors. They might transmit at speeds up to 5,000 words a minute.

The next shooting star you see might be triggering off some future rain, according to the theory of Australia's Dr. E. G. Bowen.

He finds some evidence that heavy meteor showers are followed a month later by heavy rains. Meteoritic dust settling gently to earth could provide the seeds or nuclei around which raindrops form.

Archbishop Michael, 66, Dies in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Archbishop Michael, 66, head of the Greek Orthodox archdiocese in North and South America, died of heart failure at Doctors Hospital Sunday after an intestinal operation.

Prelate Michael

He became ill while attending an ecclesiastical congress in Salt Lake City and was flown here last Tuesday night for treatment.

He was the spiritual leader of a million Americans of Greek descent and of an estimated five million communicants of all Eastern Orthodox churches in the Western Hemisphere. His archdiocese has 380 churches.

A hospital spokesman said part of Archbishop Michael's colon was removed during an extensive operation last Wednesday. He suffered shock but responded quickly to medication and seemed to be recovering, the spokesman added.

Sunday, his attending physician asked the tall, gray-bearded prelate how he felt. He nodded, then died.

Bishop Athenagoras of Boston, Chancellor Arthinandrite Neothytos of the archdiocese and John Coliacopoulos, Greek consul general in New York, were summoned to the hospital immediately after the archbishop's death.

Archbishop Michael was born Thucydides Constantinides in 1892 in the province of Maronia in western Thrace.

Canterbury Hints H-Bomb May Be God's Plan of End

LONDON (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury touched off a furore Sunday by suggesting it may be God's intention that the human race destroy itself in an H-bomb war.

Dr. Fisher

"For all I know it is within the providence of God that the human race should destroy itself in this manner. There is no evidence that the human race should last forever, and plenty in Scripture to the contrary."

The archbishop was one of 22 contributors to a book out Monday —"The Fearful Choice"—edited by Philip Toynbee, 42, son of famed historian Prof. Arnold Toynbee. The younger Toynbee, former leftist novelist, advanced the view that occupation by the Russians would be preferable to a hydrogen war.

The archbishop, in a critical reply, contended, "Policy should not be based simply on fear of pain."

Dr. Fisher's views were described as "wicked" by Canon L. J. Collins, the preceptor of famed St. Paul's Cathedral. Canon Collins, leader of a group of Anglican churchmen who feel Britain should renounce nuclear weapons —alone if necessary—said:

"It is one thing to accept suffering on one's own behalf. It is quite another—and a wicked one at that—to think lightly of suffering caused to other people."

The Archbishop of Canterbury, who is head of the Anglican Church, wrote: "I am not being unfeeling. Christ in his Crucifixion showed us how to suffer creatively. He did not claim to end suffering, nor did he bid his disciples to avoid suffering.

"I cannot establish any policy merely on whether or not it will save the human race from a period of suffering or from extinction."

Reynolds News, a Socialist Sunday newspaper, predicted the archbishop would face his biggest storm yet over his statement.

The Sunday Pictorial commented, "Surely this can't be the will of God."

Murder Charges Sought For Allen, Rothschild

Have Evidence Linking Bootlegger To Drake Killing, Solicitor Says

Constitution State News Service

JEFFERSON—The Jackson County grand jury will be asked to indict A. D. Allen, 36-year-old Jefferson bootlegger, for murder in the robbery-slaying of Charles Drake, Sol.-Gen. Alfred Quillian of Winder said Sunday night.

The solicitor of the Piedmont Judicial Circuit said he will also ask the grand jury to return a murder indictment against Charles (Rocky) Rothschild. The grand jury will convene Aug. 4.

"Corroborative evidence implicating Allen's part in the crime will be released to the grand jury," he said.

It was Rothschild, 33, a former Cairo, Ill., police officer who confessed killing the Jefferson merchant the night of June 19, 1956, and who implicated Allen in the case.

In Atlanta, U.S. Warden Fred Wilkerson said Quillian was conferring with U.S. Attorney James Dorsey on "procedure" for state officials to enter the Atlanta penitentary to obtain a statement from Allen.

A native of Commerce and once a used car dealer in Winder, Allen was admitted to the Atlanta prison on Sept. 23, 1957, to serve a five-year term for violating federal liquor laws—"bootlegging."

Allen has been assigned a job in the food service department of the penitentary. The warden describes him as "a good prisoner."

Rothschild is expected to be returned to Georgia by South Carolina after red tape is unraveled. Rothschild has waived extradition, but the legal complication arises out of the sentence he is now serving in a Spartanburg, S.C. prison. He is serving five years for safe-cracking.

In his confession of the murder absolving James Fulton Foster, twice sentenced to die, Rothschild said Allen conspired in planning the robbery of Drake. He said Allen assisted him in carrying out their conspiracy to rob Drake of a money belt containing more than $5,000.

Rothschild said Allen joined him at a pre-arranged meeting place, drove him to the Drake house on the outskirts of Jefferson, and helped him escape.

Meanwhile, a "freedom" date drew nearer for Foster, 44, a Greer, S.C., house painter who has remained in the county jail here. His wife and seven children joined him after Rothschild's confession.

Solicitor Quillian said he will confer with all officers investigating the case before Wednesday. After that conference, he said, he will probably be ready to agree to a hearing of Foster's attorneys' motion for a new trial. If the new trial is granted, Foster could then be released on bail.

Sheriff John B. Brooks said Sunday night his deputies and GBI agents will resume the search Monday morning for the .38-caliber pistol which Rothschild claims he used to kill Drake.

IKE'S BROTHER IN PANAMA—PANAMA CITY, Panama—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, on a good-will fact-finding mission in Latin America, addresses the crowd that greeted him at Tocumen Airport, Panama, the first stop on his itinerary. He is accompanied by his 19-year-old daughter, Rush. Eisenhower drew moderate applause when his party was whisked through the streets of Panama City.

Highway Death Toll In State Is 2

Two persons were killed on Georgia's highways over the weekend, fewer than in any other weekend in recent months.

The toll was in marked contrast to the previous weekend—the long Fourth of July weekend—in which 16 persons met death on the state's roads.

One of the traffic deaths was the first to be recorded in Statesboro in more than 18 months. Police said Ellis Holt, 49, of Brooklet was killed in a two car collision at a Statesboro intersection Saturday. The last fatality there was Dec. 23, 1956.

The State Patrol reported that William C. Barlow, 60, of Macon, died when he apparently leaped from his car after a tire blew out on U.S. Highway 129 in Berrien County.

An Atlanta man sitting on railroad tracks was killed by an Atlantic Coast Line engine Saturday. Police identified him as Charles Barnes, 47. They quoted the engineer as saying he blew the whistle and rang the bell but Barnes made no attempt to move and the train could not stop in time.

Jaycee Air Cruise Will Pass Over City

More than 30 private planes will either fly over or land in Atlanta this week en route to Mexico City in the sixth annual Jaycee Air Cruise.

The planes, representing pilots and their families over the nation, are converging on Philadelphia, from which city they are due to take off at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The cruise this year is sponsored by the Philadelphia Junior Chamber of Commerce. All planes must reach Mexico City by July 22. Winners will be determined on an efficiency time-to-fuel ratio.

Police Fire At Suspect In Car Theft

An auto theft suspect, stopped in a stolen car during a wild police chase, fled in a hail of gunfire Sunday afternoon in northwest Atlanta.

Police posted a lookout for the man, identified as Eugene Williams, Negro, of 475 John St., NW.

The car was stolen from Gordon Creach of Rte. 3, Austell. Sgt. D. H. Riley spotted the car on Bankhead avenue near Maddox Park. Police chased it at speeds up to 100 miles an hour. The stolen auto was finally stopped on Hollywood road near Alvin drive.

Police fired as Williams fled on foot.

Four occupants of the car, all Negroes, were arrested and held on charges of suspicion of auto larceny. They were Charles Ponder, 18, of 413 John St., NW; Dorothy Thomas, 23, of 475 John St., NW; Dorothy Conyers, 19, of 314 Grey St., NW, and a 16-year-old boy who was turned over to juvenile authorities.

(Names of persons under 17 are withheld in accordance with Georgia juvenile law.)

7 Injured In Crash of Car, Truck

Seven persons were injured, one critically, when a car collided with a pickup truck on Northside drive late Sunday night, police said.

The injured were identified at Grady Hospital as Charles Jewell, 25, of 198 Auburn Ave.; Richard Cheney, 31, of 892 Magnolia St.; Ruth M. Hope, 38, of 892 Magnolia St.; Lula Mae Thomas, 32, of 387 Felton Dr.; Charles Hairston, 36, of 287 Northside Dr.; Hazel Pope, 30, of 582 Farmall St., and Burns Pope, 33, of 583 Farmall St., all Negroes.

Lula Mae Thomas was critically injured.

Patrolman L. F. Harris said the car, driven by Hairston, sped into the pickup truck driven by Cheney.

Bob the Monkey Skips Out of Zoo But He's Expected Back — Hungry

"Bob" the monkey had a gay time Sunday. He was free—for a while at least—to scamper where he pleased.

The grayish-brown, 10-pound Java monkey skipped out of its cage Sunday morning when Grant Park Zoo keeper Jimmy Hammonds was serving breakfast to the animals. Bob whisked through the open door and hurried away to parts unknown.

Johnny Dilbeck, city parks director, predicted Bob would return "when he gets hungry enough to want monkey-house rations, which he likely can't find except at the Grant Park Zoo."

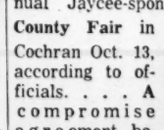
Wheeler Ouster Ruling Is Promised in 2 Weeks

Judge J. K. Whaley of the Oconee Circuit said Sunday at Alamo he will rule within two weeks on the recommendations of two Wheeler County grand juries that Oris Braswell, commissioner of roads and revenues, be removed from office.

A hearing was held Friday to permit Braswell to show cause why he should not be removed. He declared that it would be unconstitutional to oust him.



The two grand juries charged him with "inefficiency, waste and other misconduct."

Judge Whaley said that a 1942 law provides that in the event two separate grand juries recommend the removal of the county commissioner for inefficiency or any other misconduct it becomes the duty of the judge of the superior court to declare the office vacant. A special election is then held to fill the vacant office.

Judge Whaley said that he would not have time to study the case until the present term of court is concluded.

Girl, 8, Drowns On Fishing Trip Near Fairurn

An 8-year-old Negro girl drowned in a lake near Fairburn Sunday afternoon.

Patrolmen D. H. Crawford and C. W. Mauldin of the Southside Incorporated police identified the girl as Catherine Rainey of a Dodd street address in Fairburn.

The policemen were told that Catherine was standing on the bank fishing with Marvin Woodard, 7. The boy said the girl fell into the water and he ran to a nearby house to alert the girl's mother.

The mother told police she and the boy were unable to swim.

A College Park skindiver, Hoyt W. Scarborough, pulled the child out of water about 6 ft. deep an hour and 30 minutes later. Lt. Albert Landers of the College Park Fire Department hurried a respirator to the scene but the child did not revive.

CHIROPRACTIC IN EUROPE

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM:

Here on the Continent of Europe I find the major difference between American Chiropractors and these in Belgium to be entirely in their technical instruments. The instruments and X-Ray equipment that some of us have are not to be found here in Belgium. Today we were discussing the care of Neuritis of the arms and shoulders and the Doctors' approach here is practically the same as in America.

Dr. Grady Lake

My visit to Belgium has truly been a wonderful one. The World's Fair is all that has been said for it and more. It is truly an education within itself.

Captive Legislators Do as They're Told

For several years The Constitution has been pointing to the decline in power of the Georgia General Assembly in relation to the executive department. The proof has been an Assembly which seemed to exist largely to rubberstamp the governor's policies.

Thanks to political circumstances, the Legislature did rebel at its final session this year with quite constructive results for all the people of the state. This was quite promising and again called attention to the need for a true balance in state government.

The governor's power, of course, has come about largely through his power over the budget and his control of surplus funds. This powerful club can be and has been wielded with ruthless effect.

But the power over the budget is not the only method through which the Legislature has been weakened. Examination of the rolls of recent General Assemblies would show that scores of lawmakers have been on the state payroll except during legislative sessions when the law says they must resign.

While the majority of legislators resist the temptation, enough of them accept state jobs to form a sizable bloc—large enough to be the balance of power on much key legislation. As long as the temptation is there, some legislators will fall for it and even seek office in order to take advantage of it.

Once on the state payroll, a legislator no longer can represent the people who elected him. He becomes a captive. He must vote as he is told.

The temptation is corrupting and evil. In practice it weakens the Legislature, strengthens the executive and is destructive of representative government.

During this political campaign, voters no doubt would like to hear candidates' views on the subject. Lt. Gov. Vandiver, for instance, is on record time and again as favoring an independent General Assembly and has called for a restoration of balance between the legislative and executive branches. He has spoken sincerely but in general terms.

One major step in achieving that aim would be a legislative act or a constitutional amendment barring members of the Legislature from working for the state. Such legislation would discourage those unscrupulous individuals who seek office for the sole purpose of plundering the political trough.

Let the voters hear from all the candidates on this subject! Let's discuss specific measures to strengthen the legislative branch.

Trade Bill Amendment Is Loaded With Danger

Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson has indicated he will assist the administration to defeat an iniquitous amendment tagged onto the mutual trade bill extension by the Senate Finance Committee. All possible help will be needed.

The committee recommended an extension of three years rather than five asked by the President. But the amendment would strip the President of any authority to overrule the Tariff Commission, a board usually in favor of high, protective tariffs of the sort which makes impossible any "mutual" trade.

The amendment, if retained, would promote the addition of many other escape clauses. But, fundamentally, it abolishes the whole concept and operation of mutual trade.

A bitter battle is in prospect. If the administration is defeated then the United States can expect, within a brief period of years, a depression which would involve all our Western allies. A victory for this amendment would almost guarantee Communist victory in the economic warfare which is so much a part of the cold war.

St. Louis Radio Station Supports Fluoridation

Radio station KMOX at St. Louis recently presented both sides on the fluoridation issue, then took an editorial position on the subject.

Here in part is what the station had to say editorially:

"There has been such a hubbub of comment on the issue of fluoridating St. Louis County water that the uninformed person might be led to believe this is some brand-new form of medical quackery do-gooders are trying to foist on the public. Actually, it is a method of preventing decay in the teeth of young children which has been tried and tested in this country ever since 1945.

"As a matter of fact, there are more than seven million people in some 1,600 towns whose drinking water naturally contains the fluoride that provides dental health protection, while more than 33 million others in 1,644 communities are drinking water to which fluoride has been added. . . .

"Much has been said by those who oppose fluoridation about its possible harmful effects, but well documented and authenticated proof in that direction is totally lacking. On the other hand, Dr. Nicholas C. Leone, Chief of Medical Investigation for the National Institute of Dental Research says, 'We know without question or doubt that one part per million fluoride in a water supply is absolutely safe, is beneficial and is not productive of any undesirable systematic effect in man.'

"In the face of overwhelming proof from practically every recognized, reputable scientific organization in this country. . . .

"KMOX Radio is for fluoridation. . . ."

As a newspaper believing in the safety and efficacy of fluoridation, The Atlanta Constitution finds music in this editorial from another medium.

Let's Have Big Turnout At Salk 'Dollar Clinic'

The "Dollar Clinic" to be held Wednesday at the Academy of Medicine, corner of W. Peachtree and Seventh streets, makes protection against polio easy on the pocketbook and convenient to all.

For only a dollar you can receive your immunization shot and, presto, you'll be on your way within five minutes from the time you arrived at the clinic.

This intensive campaign aimed at safeguarding the health and lives of Atlanta area residents is made possible through the efforts of the Fulton County Medical Society which will supply doctors and nurses, the polio foundation and its volunteer clerical workers, and Atlanta medical supply and drug wholesalers who are furnishing Salk vaccine and syringes at wholesale cost.

The project can spell the doom of polio here provided the public seizes the opportunity as it should. Thousands upon thousands of victims across the nation today comprise proof of the painful results of apathy.

Surely the citizens of this community are willing to spend five minutes between 4 and 7 p.m. Wednesday to protect themselves against crippling disease. The second shot in the series will be given at a later date at the same site.

By all means don't miss the Wednesday bargain in insurance against a killer.

Marietta Votes Bonds But Only by Minority

Mariettans went to the polls Tuesday and approved a proposed investment for protection against fire, crime and juvenile delinquency.

They voted by two or more to one in favor of an $850,000 bond issue for civic improvements—better fire protection, a new police station, a recreation and teen-age center.

But scarcely 1,000 of 5,436 registered citizens took the trouble to vote.

It's good to see our neighbors in the Cobb County seat willing to go in debt for a better community even as all of us buy home appliances and better cars on time.

It's discouraging to see the approval by so pitifully small a turnout on election day.

Better Law Enforcement Will Stop Speeders

By letter, by telephone, by personal conversation, The Constitution has been hearing complaints about trucks and busses speeding on the highways and creating hazards on Atlanta's Expressway system.

One has only to ride the roads to know the complaints are justified. Of course, they can be expanded to include private passenger vehicles, too.

But the heavy haulers are longer, wider and noisier—much more noticed in passing than the private car.

To hold the trucking industry itself solely responsible is unfair.

The truck lines insist that their drivers obey the law. They insist, too, trip schedules are set up so that the trucks can operate at legal speed and still be on time.

They say they cannot follow each driver and they are calling, along with everyone else, for rigid law enforcement.

Once more then, we come to the one way to control speed on the highways.

That is adequate enforcement.

Enforcement comes from constant patrol and application of the law without fear or favor.

When people insist that the speed laws be enforced, when they insist that officers charged with enforcement patrol the highways and not perform political duties, when they are ready to pay for adequate enforcement, then and then only will those who protest high speed have an answer to the question: Why doesn't somebody do something about it?

Friend of Atty. Wood in World War II Says He Deserved the Medal of Honor

Fort McClellan, Ala.—I am certain you don't know this about James Horace Wood, because Woody would never say much about it.

I believe James Horace Wood was the greatest soldier in World War II.

I was his best friend in the war, I think. We were both platoon leaders in Company C, 16th Infantry Regiment, First Infantry Division.

In a few terrible days, starting on Nov. 16, 1944, Company C was cut from 200 men to less than 35. I was wounded, the company commander was killed, the third platoon leader became a case of combat fatigue. Woody was left to fight the enemy with less than 10 men.

With those 10 men he held off several German counterattacks. The German forces were overwhelming and included five tanks. Woody and his men held the position until they were relieved.

His platoon sergeant, Jake Lindsey, received the Medal of Honor; Woody got another Purple Heart.

James Horace Wood deserved the Medal of Honor even more than Jake Lindsey did.

Citizens Are Urged To Salvage Paper

Jackson—The greatest waste now going on in nearly every community and city is paper waste. Hence, this suggestion.

Every community should own and operate a wastepaper baler and at intervals throughout the month or year this waste paper and cartons should be shipped back to the paper mill or mills.

Literally millions can and should be saved.

Any small town or community owning a paper baler would doubtless find here another source of revenue.

Why Is High Court So Lenient to Reds?

Decatur—I cannot understand why our Supreme Court is so lenient to the Communist leaders of America.

To my knowledge, as a humble citizen, a Communist is the follower of the teachings of Lenin and cruel Stalin and these teachings advocate destruction of the Christian democracy.

Faithful citizens of America, wake up and gird yourself against this enemy and hold fast to cherished independence.

Urge your lawmakers to outlaw this dammable philosophy which is enslaving freedom-loving peoples. B. M. SHARIAN.

Where, Oh Where Has Vicuna Gone?

Auburn, Ala.—Let us lampoon a little, gentlemen of the press. An old song we have known since our childhood is about to come to Washington with a new meaning, yet a meaning as old as the red clay hills of Georgia, Alabama and my native state, Mississippi. The song, of course, is the delightful tune, "Oh where, oh where has my little dog gone?"

I predict that the next song hit in the District of Columbia will be:

Oh where has my little vicuna gone?
Oh where, oh where has it gone?
With its sleeves cut short and its tail cut long
Oh where has my little vicuna gone?

Is a Prophet Guaranteed?

"A dark, dangerous man is coming into your life," said the fortune teller with more curves than a crystal ball to the enterprising male customer who was holding her hand. The customer said, "Who is he?" And the fortune teller said, "My husband!" At the risk of sticking my nose into the other fellow's tent, I would like to get something off my chest. I think the advertising screen for a couple of radio stations to which I have listened recently should be finer.

In north Alabama I tuned the car set and heard a commercial about Sister Cherokee. Sister Cherokee could solve your problem, interpret your dreams, unravel your knots and heal your faith, the man on the air was saying.

Down on the coast I heard the same thing about Sister Marie.

Seems to me a man ought to be willing to stand at least half way behind that which he advertises. Fortune tellers included. I doubt they merit the media seal of approval.

Which reminds me of the soothsayer who said she would answer two questions for $25.

"Isn't that a pretty high fee?" asked the customer.

And she said, "Now what is your second question?"

SONAR BOOM: Safety-minded motorists soon may have available a front-end radar hooked up to throw out beeps from the dashboard if the car gets too close to another car. Now there's a good thing. Let Officeseekers Read Tablet on Brasstown Bald

Atop Brasstown Bald there's a marble tablet donated in love of Georgia by a Charles J. Haden. It sits at Georgia's highest spot and then tells a little about Georgia. "Georgia," it says, "was the only colony founded by the British Parliament for the avowed purpose of human welfare.

"It was the first colony in the Western Hemisphere to forbid slavery, to prohibit rum, to found an orphanage, to grant all married women full property rights, to charter a state college for women."

The choice of items about which to be proud shows that Mr. Haden believed in progress and in the dignity of individuals and the value of individual liberty.

We would like to suggest that all candidates for governor and lieutenant governor of Georgia visit the top of Brasstown Bald in northeast Georgia and commit to memory the words on that plaque. With the one exception of Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver's statement on industrial development, our candidates and their immediate supporters have dealt with subjects that have nothing to do with forwarding the cause of human welfare in this state.

In fact, the campaigns appear to be based on proving that each candidate in his own way will do the best job of working against the constituted law of the nation, building roads for his friends and holding the line. There are many good things about Georgia to be protected and retained, but our need for progress has not changed and we'd like to know what the candidates think about that subject.

The protection and development of natural resources, improvement in education (aside from mere money spending), aid to urban areas with all sorts of population, growth and tax problems—these are subjects worthy of campaign talk also.

Perhaps we're the ones who are wrong. Perhaps all the people in Georgia who care about issues in addition to roads and race could cluster around the tablet on the mountaintop and have all the room they needed.

Milwaukee Journal

A skin diver and spear fisherman dived deep off Corpus Christi, Tex., the other day, saw a dark shadow in the water, let go with his spear gun and hit his mark.

The mark turned out to be his boyhood friend and fellow skin diver.

It had to happen sooner or later. And it will happen again. It's the unfortunate way of too many a hunter to shoot first and look afterward.

As the boastful hunter explains his prowess in the song, "I just stand there looking cute, and when something moves, I shoot." His trophy room contained "seven hunters, six game wardens and a cow."

Others, as the sport grows, will contain skin divers.

Democratic Battle Splits Tennessee

WASHINGTON—Sometimes an apparently local political race has, below the surface, an importance far above its meaning at home—a significance hardly less than that of a national election. Such a rare contest has developed in Tennessee. Superficially, the issue simply is whether Sen. Albert Gore shall be granted a Democratic renomination equivalent to re-election or whether he shall be replaced by Prentice Cooper.

The outcome of the primary Aug. 7 will involve neither partisan gain nor loss; the seat in any event will remain Democratic. But being put to the test is a whole new political movement.

The result will tell whether a moderately liberal and forward-looking Southern political view can survive in the tragic backwash of the racial crisis in Little Rock and elsewhere. And if this view cannot live in Tennessee, which is Upper Southern rather than Deep Southern, it can hardly live anywhere in the South.

All this is the estimate of the ablest national politicians here, in both parties and from all sections. The eyes of political Washington are focusing on Tennessee.

For Gore is the first to come up for reelection of that handful of Southern senators who twice in less than three years have refused to go all the way with the traditional Southern position on civil rights.

In 1956 Gore and his Tennessee colleague, Sen. Estes Kefauver, and the Senate Democratic leader, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, did not sign the Southern Manifesto for all-out resistance to school integration.

And in 1957, Gore and these same two worked for, rather than against, a moderate civil rights bill. They helped provide the first federal enforcement powers over the right to vote that had been granted since Reconstruction.

Cooper, Gore's challenger, is recalling these facts from the levees of Memphis to the hills of Chattanooga and Knoxville. He is the champion of Southern standpattism. Gore is now feeling the whip of the Southern right wing for having gone too far on civil rights.

This, of course, is not the sole issue in Tennessee. Another is Gore's discipleship of Cordell Hull, father of reciprocal trade. But on the great and sometimes harshly simplified scoreboard of national politics, few will look beyond the total of hits, runs and errors on civil rights.

Gore's victory would hearten those Southern moderates who wish to work out the civil rights problem by compromise and not to break mortally with the Northern Democrats. It would permit a slight forward movement of those who know that the demand for increased Negro rights will not slacken but will at length break violently or otherwise every barrier that is kept too high against it.

His defeat would amount to a repudiation of this whole policy of giving ground gradually rather than not at all. It would frighten all the Southern moderates.

Tennessee is indeed a great battleground—not between Republican and Democrat but between Democrat and Democrat. This is a passage at arms that is immeasurably bigger on the inside than it looks on the outside.

Application Is Key To Ideas' Success

Some time ago an idea came to me. I don't know where it came from. I supposed it was something that had sprung up spontaneously in what I thought at that moment was my very clever mind. I thought through the idea for some time, fondled it gently, and then when an auspicious moment arrived I tried it out on a friend. I imagined that he would be awe-struck and overwhelmed.

He said, "That was something a teacher of mine used to say years ago, and I think even now it is a good idea." I was somewhat startled and I was glad that modesty had prevented me from claiming credit for the idea.

But the experience did sharpen in my thinking a wiser and better idea—that during the many generations of human experience other men have thought the thoughts we imitate and done the things we copy. Perhaps there is now nothing new under the sun.

The fact that most of us are not original thinkers ought not to disturb us greatly. The need of our world is not for completely new ideas but for the right application and use of good and noble ideas.

A friend who is quite a Bible student says that very few of Jesus' teachings were original. In the heritage of His race and culture can be traced many of His words and thoughts. This may be true, for I do know Jesus' teaching is immersed with the language and wisdom of the Old Testament.

How then do we account for the uniqueness and the finality of Jesus? What do we make of His words, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away"? There was something unusual and different about Jesus. That we all know to be true. What was it that made Him different?

Jesus had the ability of sifting the inspired thoughts of many men and many generations and selecting those ideas which were of permanent and eternal worth. These things He brought together in a message of salvation. The original man is he who knows what to discard and what to cherish, and takes that which is worthy and applies it to human situations and experiences.

God had spoken to and through many men before the incarnation of Christ. What God had said to others, Christ, of course, would not reject. He quoted from priest and prophet, from the Psalmist and lawgiver. But He so highlighted the greatest of teachings that His words are still cherished and loved.

More than this, Jesus in His life so exemplified the inspired wisdom of the past that men saw in Him the incarnation of all God's wills and desires for men. I am sure the originality of Jesus is to be found in the truth that what He said and what He was were one.

They'll Investigate The Investigators

There are more investigations going on than one can shake a summons at. Along the banks of the Potomac they're checking on the vicuna traders and rug lenders and down here in Georgia anext the storied Chattahoochee, which rushes from the hills of Habersham, at least three big investigations of state affairs are getting under way. One would think there was something wrong.

A hundred thousand dollars or so has vanished at Baxley. Just gone. Not there any more. And nothing in place of it. Vanished. It belonged to the taxpayers. Faded away. Money is so hard to keep up with these days.

Fulton County is peering into state affairs. A Senate Watchdog Committee is baying on the scent. Gov. Griffin has put former Highway Board Chairman Roger Lawson on the trail. Lawson says there's a possibility he'll look into the way the highway department was run under Lawson.

One can almost see the inquisitorial scene. Kleig lights are shining, flashbulbs pop, television cameras swing to and fro, newspaper scribes take notes.

Former Highway Chairman Lawson is waved to the witness seat. Investigator Lawson rises.

Lawson: "I wish to thank you, sir, for coming here to help in this investigation."

Lawson: "I'm pleased to be of service, sir."

Lawson: "We have reports that the road outside Leaping Lizard, which we understand was constructed during your tenure as highway chairman, has a pothole in it. This pothole is on the right-hand side about three miles south of town just past the third bridge. Can you tell us anything about it?"

Lawson: "Well, let me think. I'm trying to place that pothole." He thinks.

Lawson: "We'll have to hurry along here. Can you tell us anything, sir, about that pothole?"

Lawson: "I'm trying to get it straight in my mind. It would help if I had the records of the Leaping Lizard district here."

Lawson: "We have to get on with this inquiry. Please try to give an answer."

Lawson: "I'd like to consult with Mr. Shadburn on this matter."

Lawson: "Keep Mr. Shadburn out of it. I'm asking you. We'll call Mr. Shadburn if we think it is necessary."

Lawson: "Yes sir."

Lawson: "We've got to hurry on, Mr. Lawson. Can you or can't you tell us about that pothole?"

Lawson: "There's one on the left, about five miles north of Leaping Lizard, but I just can't place the one you're referring to. It must have come up since I left office."

Lawson: "I'm not satisfied with your answer. We'll get back to this later. Keep yourself available."

Lawson: "Yes sir."

Has Vandiver Put Griffin Into Fray?

If it does nothing else, Vandiver's speech will stir Griffin's political supporters who would welcome an all-out administration fight against the lieutenant governor. So far, open opposition within the Griffin administration to Vandiver has been confined largely to the Revenue department and its commissioner, T. V. (Red) Williams Sr.

Should Griffin decide to fire back at Vandiver, he probably will do so in one (or both) of two ways: by taking the stump to defend his administration or by throwing the administration's support behind the thus far ineffective candidacy of Rep. William T. Bodenhamer.

There is considerable debate over how much good Griffin could do any candidate if he went to work on it. Certainly Griffin's personal, political and official prestige has been battered heavily in the past several months. But the power of any sitting governor, no matter how unpopular he might be, cannot be discounted. This is particularly true with a governor who has stumping ability of Griffin.

But even the governor would have a difficult time lining up an effective "stop-Vandiver" campaign. Vandiver's big Dublin rally bore out what his leaders have long contended: that he enjoys perhaps the most powerful and diverse political support ever accorded for governor. This widespread backing by political leaders of Vandiver runs from the state to the local level. It includes representatives of virtually every force in state politics, save that of Griffin and his inner circle of supporters.

Seldom, if ever before, have so many members of the General Assembly turned out for a campaign opening as they did Saturday for Vandiver.

Vandiver from the start has had the enthusiastic backing of the political supporters of Sens. Talmadge and Russell. He can now count virtually all of the one-time leaders of the anti-Talmadge faction in his camp.

Prominent in the audience Saturday were such anti-Talmadge stalwarts as Rep. Downing Musgrove of Clinch County, former Sen. Walter Harrison of Jenkins County.

For a while, there was a tendency on the part of many of the old anti-Talmadge faction leaders to sit out the campaign—or at least to watch developments. They are important politically in a number of counties, particularly in the southeast and south-central area that formed the hard core of former Gov. E. D. Rivers strength. They are now in the contest on Vandiver's side.

One of the unique features of Vandiver's strength lies in the fact that in so many counties rival local factions have banded together in his behalf. Getting local factions together in a state race is one of the trickiest jobs in Georgia politics. But it has been done in many counties this year.

Laurens County, where Vandiver opened his campaign, is a prime example. For years, Laurens has been split into two warring factions, one headed by Hershel Lovett, the other by Sheriff Carlus Gay. But this year, Gay and Lovett and their respective followers have buried the hatchet publicly—at least in the governor's race—and are supporting Vandiver.

haven't worked more than a day and a half on it (the church) in the past week," Jones said.

Atlanta Water Works officials say drenched Atlantans aren't using as much water as they did in the dry spell a month ago. They are pumping approximately 70 millions of water a day. During the drought, the water works pumped a record 87,850,000 gallons in one day, June 10.

Gardeners may expect some trouble from the long, wet spell, too, Charles J. Hudson, Atlanta horticulturist said. Crabgrass and fungus growths are the natural result of excessive wet weather, he said.

The Atlanta Weather Bureau reports 2.32 inches of rainfall above the July average. A total of 5.14 inches has fallen since July 1.

For the year, 35.81 inches of rain have been recorded in Atlanta. This is 3.57 inches above normal for the year.

Augusta reported 2.41 inches of rainfall in the 24-hour period ended 7 p.m. Sunday.

Other cities reporting considerable rain Sunday were Savannah, .22; Macon, .69; Chattanooga, Tenn., .33, and Albany, .38 for the period 1 to 7 p.m.

Goldfine Investigators Subpoenaing 4 More placed itself in position to cite him for contempt of Congress if he continues to refuse to answer questions on his affairs. Harris said that if Goldfine persists in his refusals Tuesday he would be ready to "pursue" the matter of the citation.

Rep. Bennett (R-Mich) a subcommittee member, said in a separate interview Sunday that he will attempt Tuesday to find out why one of the Goldfine companies from which the industrialist is alleged to have borrowed more than $100,000 had made no reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission for nearly eight years.

Bennett said he thought "even Mr. Goldfine's attorneys agree that questions about failure to file the SEC Reports are pertinent."

Harris denied Sunday that the subcommittee had exceeded its jurisdiction as Goldfine and his lawyers have charged.

"Mr. Goldfine," he said, "is trying to attract attention in some other direction by these charges. The subcommittee is not going to be diverted."

He said in response to a question that the subcommittee did not have in its possession any further undisclosed information on Goldfine's gifts to Adams. Adams told the subcommittee three weeks ago that the gifts, including more than $3,000 in hotel bills, vicuna cloth for a coat and several "mats," did not cause him to seek special treatment for the industrialist from federal agencies.

Harris said Sunday that the subcommittee's record showed that Adams had intervened on Goldfine's behalf as the result of "a close relationship over a period of time and human nature being what it is."

Meanwhile, the political uproar over Adams and his relations with Godfine continued unabated in the capital.

Senator Kerr, (D-Okla.) suggested on Mutual Broadcasting Company's "Reporters Roundup" that the President might give Adams some less "prominent" job than top assistant for his "imprudence" in accepting gifts from Goldfine.

Kerr, usually a razor-tongued critic of the administration, described Adams Sunday as "a sincere, honorable fellow." However, he said he thought the President's description of his actions as "imprudent" was a "slight understatement."

He predicted that the Adams-Goldfine case would be "very bad" for the Republicans in this fall's congressional election and would "carry over" to the presidential election of 1960.

Old 290 Is Late on Last Trip

tell you how to do this job. We've just had to feel our way along."

Biggest delay came Saturday when the engine was moved off the A & W P right-of-way on to Pryor road. The trailing wheels, a pair of wheels which follow the drivers, jumped the track and time was lost getting them back on.

The engine was given to the City of Atlanta by the Atlanta and West Point Rail Road Co. through the road's president, J. C. Mixon. It will become part of a transportation exhibit planned for the Southeastern Fairgrounds at Lakewood Park. The locomotive will be dedicated on Transportation Day at the Fair this fall.

Elements of the 987th Engineering Co. from Rome and the 448th Engineering Co. at Carrollton were helping the Atlanta reservists with the move. The engine alone weighs 134 tons. The engine's tender was moved relatively easily aboard a huge flatbed truck by the Army reservist engineers.

The engine, although having no motive power of its own, had braking power Sunday, as the engineers had rigged up an air compressor on a truck to ride alongside the engine and put air in her reserve tanks. The compressed air also gave power for the engine's bell, which rang continuously every time the engine rolled.

The idea of obtaining a steam locomotive as a permanent exhibit in transportation-born Atlanta was largely that of Emory Milton Ivie, a retired railroad conductor here. Ivie was at the scene of the move both Saturday and Sunday. A committee, headed by The Atlanta Constitution columnist Leo Aikman, has worked for several months to obtain the locomotive for the city and have it placed at Lakewood.

One retired railroader who came out to see 290 move was W. E. Harrison, retired Pullman conductor. "I've known that engine a long time," he said, "and I sure am glad that it will be kept permanently in Atlanta. It was that steam power that built this city."

Good Reason To Want To Grow: The Bigger Kids Can Eat More

"So I could scare everybody."

"Even your teacher?"

"Heck no. Nothing could scare her."

And now let's look over a few choice comments by the children on the subject of "age."

What age would you like to be instead of 6?

Seventeen, 'cause then you're an old woman and pretty soon you'll be with God.

You're 5. How old would you like to be?

Fourteen.

Why?

So I can be a father. (He paused to consider.) I'd like to start with 51 children.

I'm 6.

What would you rather be?

A father.

Why?

Because I don't want to be a mother.

I'd like to stay 11 forever, because minute you're 12 you have to pay more for everything.

I'd like to be 12 so I could marry Casey and have some children.

How many?

Three of each kind as a start.

How will Casey make a living for this big family?

That's not my worry. He's got to think of something.

How old are you?

Seven.

How old would you like to be?

Nine.

Why?

It's more peaceful.

I like being 11.

What's so good about being 11?

Your stomach is larger than before and you can eat more.

What's the best part of being 10?

My allowance is bigger.

How much do you get?

Fifty cents.

How much did you get before?

Seventy-five cents.

Whoa! You're going the wrong way, aren't you? Isn't that smaller?

My sister got married last January and my folks are still broke.

Not all girls want to be Marilyn Monroe when they grow up. Here are some other career ideas advanced by the kids.

What will you be?

A nurse.

What if you had a handsome, romantic patient?

I'd read to him.

And if you had a crabby, old, ugly one?

I'd give him sleeping pills.

If you were president of the United States how would you change the country?

I'd change television so all the good shows that are on late would be on early.

What type boy are you?

I'm a dreamer.

What kind of dreamer?

Well, I have day dreams in the daytime about going to the moon, and at night I just dream about girls.

As I See It

It's a Blue Monday Since Elfrida Left

By PAUL JONES

Monday night television will never be the same again.

Elfrida von Nardroff has been vanquished and "21" again has become just another TV show on a night distinguished only by a pair of westerns, a rodeo and 60 minutes of polka music.

Staying at home with the TV on Monday nights had become a habit during the past several months since Elfrida began her series of conquests. I sort of looked forward to each Monday night because I wanted to see if anybody could dethrone this woman who seemed to know about almost everything.

Jones

Secretly, I wanted her to go on to a half-million dollars. I was hoping that she would knock Robert Leicester, the schoolmaster, out of the park and then take on Stephen Becker, who apparently is going to be a push-over for Robert tonight.

I think Elfrida is entitled to another chance. I don't think it is fair for a girl with as much knowledge as she possesses to trip on such a simple question as the one on which she blundered. She had the correct answer and was about to say it when she stuttered the wrong one.

At any rate, with Elfrida off the air for the first Monday night in many weeks, I think I will take a breather away from the old set.

TELEVISION often poses some unanswerable questions.

Gunsmoke provoked one I could not handle in mixed company Saturday night.

Matt Dillon was confronting a grizzly woman who has just shot to death a man who tried to kiss her when she asked: "Hasn't a woman got a right to defend her own virtue?"

"Her what?"

HATTE GRACE, Clara Crumpton, W. H. Head, Luther Ivey, Charlie Bell, Emory Ausby of Americus, write:

"We notice that Joanne Moore will be featured on Alfred Hitchcock's Suspicion Monday night, July 14, at 10 p.m., on Channels 2 and 10, NBC-TV.

"We are sure that you are ignorant of the fact that Joanne Moore is a native of Americus or you would have mentioned it in your column. She has been on the Alfred Hitchcock Sunday night show and on The Millionaire, among others.

"Please write her name down in a prominent place so you won't forget and give her a plug when she is scheduled to appear, as we feel that we should give our native Georgians a nod of recognition."

The feeling is unanimous.

BOB CROSBY'S show Saturday night was one of the best shows of the past 12 months.

I have never heard a studio audience applaud like the Crosby audience did. Neither have I seen 60 minutes of television time so filled with fast, funny, musical entertainment as was the Crosby show.

Bob had Peggy Lee and Jack Carter, two people who are tops in their respective fields, as his guests and Miss Lee and Carter fractured the audience with their songs and humor. But, I think it was the uncluttered, imaginative production which was the big factor in the show.

The program had two production numbers which I think will stack up with any I have ever seen on TV. The opening snowscene in which Gretchen Wyler and the dancers made believe they were ice skating was just wonderful and the closing, nostalgic scene which featured the "Trolley Song" was superb. These numbers were done with a minimum number of props.

Gretchen Wyler

I only hope that NBC-TV is smart enough to find a regular place for him in the new fall line-up.

ALAN LANE, of College Park, writes: "Recently I saw in a column, possibly yours, the name of the new quiz show. The show I have in mind is 'Haggis Baggis.' Upon reading this very confusing name, I immediately went to the encyclopedia to find an answer to this strange name.

"The only solution I could find was the game Os related to the 'Guggenheim Game.' I am still stumped. I would appreciate it very much if you could find a solution and let me know what it is."

How about it, do you know the answer?

See One of the Most Hilarious Lucy Shows

PAUL JONES' PICK OF THE DAY—It is not often that I recommend re-runs, but the I Love Lucy show tonight is going to feature one of the most hilarious episodes in the lives of Lucy and Ricky—the one in which they visit Grauman's Theater.

This particular show finds the Ricardos planning to leave California and return to New York. Lucy's frantic efforts to take the slab of concrete with John Wayne's footprints back home as a souvenir is one of the most humorous of all the Lucy episodes.

If you missed it on the first go-around, you might want to see it tonight, starting at 9 p.m. on Channel 5.

Eydie Gorme and Lawrence Score as Allen Replacement

By JACK GOULD

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence were off to a happy start Sunday night as the summer replacements for Steve Allen's program. Theirs was an hour of light and youthful variety, nothing very ambitious but a show enjoying tasteful and imaginative touches.

Both Miss Gorme and Lawrence, of course, are veterans of Allen's old "Tonight" show and their current assignment comes six months after their marriage. Sunday night they took brief and amusing note of their changed status and then went on with their program, a course of procedure that is to be recommended heartily to Hollywood couples.

MORE POISE

Since they assisted Allen in persuading viewers to stay up past a reasonable bedtime Miss Gorme and Lawrence have acquired a great deal more poise and their singing has gained in style and assurance. And Sunday night they displayed good timing and engaging naturalness in handling lines. Their quiet sense of humor is not going to do them any harm, either.

Miss Gorme's best number was a charming lament, "When the World Was Young." But both she and her husband should have a small talk with whoever is responsible for the volume of the orchestral accompaniment as heard in the home; it was much too loud.

PUPPET ACT

Shari Lewis, the gifted ventriloquist, who has been such a hit with young viewers, brought on her puppets, Lamb Chop and Charley Horse. They were thoroughly entertaining.

Margaret O'Brien and Jackie Cooper had an amusing interlude projecting themselves into the year of 1988.

The Lawrences have a head start with their personable youthfulness. If their producers can sustain the inventive touch, their show might turn out to be the sleeper of the summer.

Pope Receives Como, Family

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Perry Como, American television star, has been received in special audience by Pope Pius XII.

Como, here on a vacation, was accompanied to the audience Saturday by his wife and their children, Ronny, Terry and Theese.

Montag 'Special' Delivers Crax Into All-Star Game

Tag's Double Tames Vols For 'Rip,' 3-1

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Bob Montag struck one of the most unforgettable blows of his six-season Cracker career Sunday to reward Ray Rippelmeyer with a 3-1 victory over Nashville and Atlanta with the All-Star game host role.

Montag stepped to the plate with the score knotted at 1-1 with two men out in the eighth and knowing that Birmingham would capture the league lead and the All-Star game host role unless the Crackers won this crucial game.

"Der Tag" leaned into the first pitch from lefty Jerry Cade and smashed it into the right-center slot for a rousing double. Buck Riddle and Chuck Cottier, on first and second base via the walk route, took off like scalded dogs and churned home with the big runs.

Every man, woman and child in the Ponce de Leon Park crowd of 3,031 felt that this was the ball game. For Mr. Rippelmeyer was pitching one of the finest games of his young life.

The big right-hander was wilder than usual but allowed the invading Vols only three hits while the pulsating drama unfolded. He faced only 32 batters, five over the minimum, in posting his 11th triumph against seven defeats.

"Rip" walked four and struck out eight in outdueling Cade. And after the veteran Montag struck the big blow and he scented victory, he finished with a flourish by snuffing out three of the league's lustiest hitters in order in the ninth.

Rippelmeyer, who has notched three of the last four shutouts by Cracker hurlers, forced Chuck Coles to bound harmlessly to Cottier. Then he whiffed Emil Panko and Jim Fridley, the Southern Association's leading hitter, to end the game.

It was ironic that Rippelmeyer should slip a called third strike past Panko, for it was because of the slugging righthander that the game was tied in the first place.

Panko, acquired in a recent trade, belted a solo homer with one out in the fourth. The blow, his third in 22 games, knotted the count at 1-1 and that's how it stayed until Montag's magnificent swipe.

Cade, who didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning until Montag came along, was tagged for a run in the first inning. With one down he walked the inevitable Montag. "Der Tag" raced to third as Ben Downs slapped a single to left and scored after the catch of a sacrifice fly to center by Mike Krsnich.

Cade, who dropped his third of five decisions, allowed only five safeties, each by a different Cracker. But he issued nine free passes, two of them intentional, and stayed up to his neck in hot water.

Cade's clutch craftiness caused the Crackers to strand 12 base runners. Three died on base for lack of a clutch hit in the first, two more in the second.

And in the eighth Cade walked the bases loaded after two men were out. And, even with the aid of a passed ball and wild pitch, the Crackers were unable to dent the plate.

Birmingham's 8-5 victory over Chattanooga was "advertised" on the scoreboard by the time Montag reached the plate in the eighth.

And all those stranded Crackers were forgotten and forgiven by the gleeful faithful when Montag delivered the hit that was more important than any of his 103 home runs while in Atlanta livery.

Rippelmeyer's route-going job was the 42nd by a Cracker hurler this year, he himself having made it all the way in 10 of 18 starts.

The game would not have been played ordinarily, because puddles stood on the waterlogged field from morning rains. But because of the importance of the contest, officials decided to play it, starting 30 minutes late.

Third game of the four-game series will start at an unaccustomed 8 o'clock Monday night, with Paul Cave (5-5) the probable Cracker pitcher. Hy Cohen (2-4) will go for the Vols.

The All-Star game, now assured for a Wednesday night Ponce de Leon Park showing, will pit the Crackers against stars from the other seven teams. Nashville's Dick Sisler will pilot the All-Stars.

CRACKER DIARY—The victory was Rippelmeyer's fourth without a loss in daylight games. Joe Padilla opened the game with a single, but Rippelmeyer promptly picked him off first. . . . Krsnich started a double play that ended the Vol fifth inning and got "Rip" out of a runners-on-first-and-second situation. . . . Vol centerfielder Buddy (Gabbo) Gilbert, made a sensational catch off the right-center signs in the fifth, costing Atlanta a run. Gilbert, Padilla and Vic Comolli were the only Vols Rippelmeyer didn't whiff. . . . Atlanta has beaten the Vols in 9 of 14 games.

Downs, picked up as a free agent when Little Rock cut him loose, hit the ball hard but fruitlessly 3 times besides getting a single. John DeMerit went on the disabled list to have some warts removed from fingers on his throwing hand, making roster room for Downs.

Barons Overturn Lookouts

Clark's Doubles Pace 8-5 Win

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—Mel Clark drove in three runs with two doubles to lead Birmingham to an 8-5 Southern Assn. baseball victory over Chattanooga Sunday.

Bill Harrington went the route for the second-place Barons to gain his ninth victory against five losses. Four of the five Lookout runs were unearned.

Chattanooga ace Bill DuFour held the Barons in tow until a five-run fifth-inning rally, led by Clark's first double for two runs, sent him to the showers with his seventh loss against 10 wins.

Bob Thollander and Don Minnick finished the game for Chattanooga, allowing one run each.

Mickey LOGUE

The National Pastime

In July a young fan's fancy often turns to thoughts of the National League.

Old fans and in-between fans are in the same frame of mind. There isn't much else to think about in the majors these days. Another installment of "New York and the Seven Dwarfs" is guaranteed to divert attention from the American League standings.

Mickey Logue

While the Yankees' nearest "competitors" straggled 12½ lengths back following Sunday's action, the embattled Giants found last-place Los Angeles only seven games away.

The redoubtable Casey Stengel, having mastered the U.S. Senate, apparently had no further oratorical worlds to conquer and could concentrate on wrapping up the pennant by late August or early September. It seemed, for sure, Ol' Case would have ample time to prepare his pitching rotation for the Series.

Things, obviously, are more uncertain in the National League. Stan Musial set the tone of opinion among contenders when recently asked whether he thought the St. Louis Cardinals would win the championship.

"Why not?" came The Man's reply.

Urged to elaborate, Musial said: "We're stronger than last year going into the second half of the schedule. Our pitching is better, our bench—oh, just about everything—but we've got to score some more runs.

"I think the Cardinals, Braves, Giants and Phils will decide the race."

San Francisco Manager Bill Rigney asserted that, "We expect to stay in there all of the way. We won't be hurt at all by having both Jackie Brandt and Bill White come out of service next month."

"If we stayed in the race with Willie (Mays) driving in only five runs in six weeks," interjected another Giant official, "what do you think is going to happen when the wonder man comes out of it?"

—Giants' Rigney Covets Fireballer Farrell

Warming to the subject, Rigney told Musial he believes Dick Farrell, whose "aspirin tablets" are seldom a cure for batting headaches, would be the difference in a pennant for the Giants or Cardinals.

Unfortunately for both, Farrell wears a Philadelphia suit, and hurler-heavy Manager Mayo Smith says pitching will swing the final National League pendulum. Smith adds he is conceding nothing to any club other than Milwaukee.

"If the Braves hadn't come up with those two kid pitchers, Joey Jay and Carlton Willey, they'd be in real trouble," the Phillie pilot continued, "and if Red Schoendienst and Wes Covington aren't physically fit, Milwaukee will have a tough pull."

Fred Haney agreed, adding what "a big difference" Ed Bouchee's power has made in the Philadelphia offense. He reminded that the recovered Covington's return to the active roster has played a similarly encouraging role for Milwaukee.

"He's the one man needed to balance our attack," Haney said. "But Schoendienst is our field leader and we need him up to par. The race is wide open."

When questioned on the Phils' reaction to Bouchee's reinstatement, Smith answered: "They're saying we'll win the pennant now that Bouchee's back."

The National sweepstakes also was a multi-horse race at mid-term last season. Milwaukee's 10-game winning span and St. Louis' nine successive losses later built a pennant bridge that nobody but the Braves came close to crossing.

Will history repeat? Let's tune in Cincinnati's Birdie Tebbetts.

"Any team which can put on a winning streak could win the pennant," analyzes Birdie. "The Dodgers will be in contention before the season ends. They have too many good pitchers to remain where they are. After all, we have half our games to be played yet."

—Alston Wonders Where the Pitching Went

Pitching is an exposed nerve in Los Angeles Manager Walter Alston's conversational anatomy. The usually cautious Alston proclaimed in April that his mound corps for 1958 was the best since 1954.

Recently a verbal reminder was gently applied to the tender member. "That's one of those things you say that later kicks you in the teeth," Alston replied.

"I was basing my opinion on last year's staff and the good rookies we had at the training camp. After the season got under way (Don) Drysdale, our best pitcher in '57, couldn't get anyone out. Neither could (Don) Newcombe.

"That has been true of most of my starting pitchers and the relief men have been so unreliable that I hesitate to remove my starters."

The decline of Clem Labine, former ace of the bullpen, has been particularly distressing. Though said to be long since healed physically and spiritually, Clem hasn't been the same after a side injury two seasons ago.

"His curve doesn't curve," laments Alston, "and his sinker—once a great pitch—doesn't sink.

"Of course we miss (Roy) Campanella. He called for the right pitch."

Nevertheless, hope blooms eternal in the hearts of all baseball managers, and Walter Alston is no exception.

"But the pitchers will have to pull us out of the slump," he declared.

Mulloy Claims Bitsy's Crown In Straight Sets

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy of Denver and Miami won the National Senior Clay Courts tennis championship Sunday with a convincing triumph over defending champion Bitsy Grant of Atlanta, 6-0, 6-4.

Bitsy Grant

The lanky Mulloy, in his first year in the tournament for players 45 and older, handled Grant's service easily.

The diminutive Grant, winner of the tournament for the preceding two years, is known as a great retriever who lets his opponent make the mistakes. But Mulloy, a Davis Cup player a year ago and a Wimbledon entry two weeks ago, made few mistakes.

Cecil and John Powless of Flora, Ill., won the father and son doubles championship over Len and Steve Prosser of Kansas City, 7-5, 11-9.

Persley Warns Vaughn: It'll End in Five Rounds Tonight

Eyes Rematch With Brown

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Grizzled Arthur Persley promises to knock the props from "cutie" Ike Vaughn at City Auditorium Monday night when boxing finally returns to Atlanta. The five-bout card begins at 8:30.

In the semifinals, Rome native Rocky Randell goes against Miami lightweight Ray Estepa. It also is a 10-rounder. Three preliminaries round out the card.

"I'll stop him in five rounds," 34-year-old Persley said Sunday in the lobby of the Royal Hotel. "I hears Vaughn is a fair boxer without a KO punch . . . more of the cutie type.

"He's just a kid (24), more of a featherweight I thought. Twon't take me long to git him," chirped the owner of an eighth grade education.

Meanwhile in the Forrest Arms Hotel, Tennessee State graduate Vaughn refused to be drawn into a word battle.

The Cincinnati lightweight who acts more like a minister than a boxer said "It should be a tough fight. Knock me out in five rounds? Well, good for him. He must know a trick.

"How do I see the fight? I expect it to go 10 rounds. And in a 10-round fight, the man with the good left jab usually whips the man with the good right hand. I have the good left jab.

"Boxing is the art of manly self-defense, and I won't try for the knockout. That is, unless the opportunity presents itself."

Vaughn is expected to weigh in at 135 Monday afternoon, two pounds more than Persley. The squat Louisiana native stands 5-5, four inches less than Vaughn who also holds a 69-62 inch reach advantage.

It's an important fight for both men.

Vaughn, 13-11 over-all, is on the comeback trail with three straight wins. A victory would return the Miami-based battler to the big time and a probable television fight.

Persley, 55-8-2, has a title shot in mind. He's clamoring for a rubber match with world lightweight champion Joe Brown, The Red Cross, La., native owns a 12-round decision over the king, who scored a technical knockout in the return bout.

"I knows I don't deserve a title shot right now," Persley admitted.

But he has a plan.

"I figures after I git this boy (Vaughn) outta' de way, then maybe I can git an over-the-weight fight with Brown here. Then when I whup him, they's got to give me a title shot."

"Brown and me growed up together in Shreveport, right down the street from each other. And we used to fight and fight and fight until somebody stops us."

That's Arthur Persley, World War II veteran of the European campaign and the father of two girls. That's also Arthur Persley, the 34-year-old who's fighting a clock.

Time, somebody said, waits for no one.

Alou's Single Trips Braves, Boosts Giants Into First Place

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rookie outfielder Felipe Alou singled home the winning run in the last of the ninth Sunday, giving San Francisco a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee that boosted the Giants over the Braves into the National League lead.

Alou, who entered the game as an outfielder in the top of the ninth, went to bat with one out, Willie Mays on second and Orlando Cepeda on first. With a count of one strike and one ball, Felipe hit a pitch from reliefer Ernie Johnson on the ground into left field, scoring Mays without trouble.

The triumph put the Giants into the top spot by one-half game, the first time Milwaukee has been out of it since June 11.

The triumph was the second in a row for the Giants over the Braves.

Johnson drew the defeat, his first against three victories. A 19-year-old left-hander, Mike McCormick, the third Giant pitcher, gained his sixth triumph against one setback.

McCormick came on in the top of the ninth with the Giants leading 5-4, but the Braves evened the count on a single by Del Crandall, a two-base wild throw by McCormick when he overthrew a pick-off play and a single by Red Schoendienst.

Milwaukee grabbed command with four runs in the first inning, three of them scoring with two out after rookie left-fielder Ron Wagner misjudged a high fly from Johnny Logan.

Three more runs came to the home club in the eighth, starting with Orlando Cepeda's 19th homer of the year and his third in as many days. He blasted the ball 380 feet into the left field bleachers.

Lumpe Saves Yanks' Split

Pinch Single Prevails, 5-4, After Chisox Lift Lid, 7-4

NEW YORK (AP)—Jerry Lumpe's pinch single with the bases loaded in the 10th inning enabled the New York Yankees to get an even break with the Chicago White Sox Sunday. The Yanks took the second, 5-4, after the White Sox had bombed Don Larsen and Duke Maas for two big innings in the 7-4 opener.

The split left the Yanks 12½ games ahead of Detroit which took over second place from Boston by winning two at Baltimore.

Lumpe's single to right followed a single by Gil McDougald, a sacrifice, an intentional pass to Elston Howard and a bunt single by Ryne Duren. It was the first hit of the year for Duren, the Yanks' bespectacled relief whiz. And he made it with two strikes on him.

Yankee relief pitching was superb in the second game. Johnny Kucks and Duren mowed down 16 straight Chicago batters after Jim Landis' two-run homer had tied the score and chased Bobby Shantz in the fifth.

A crowd of 39,854 saw the Sox climb on Larsen for four runs in the third inning and add three more off Maas in the sixth inning of the first game. Earl Torgeson's two-run single was the big blow off Larsen. A two-run single by Billy Goodman and a scoring double by Nellie Fox ruined Maas.

Billy Pierce received credit for his ninth victory with the help of some fine relief work by Turk Lown who put down several Yankee threats. Lown closed out the game with a flourish, striking out Gil McDougald, Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron after walking Andy Carey, who had four hits.

Mantle struck out three times in that first game and made it four on his first time up in the second.

Aaron Going 'Home' For State Tourney

By Bert Prather

Tommy Aaron, the tall, quiet young man from Gainesville, defends the first of his two state titles this week at Athens.

And just in case candidates for his Georgia Amateur crown at Athens Country Club haven't thought about it, we'd like to remind them this is one of Tommy's favorite golfing pastures.

Bert Prather

The University of Florida senior won his first tourney at Athens. As a 16-year-old stripling, then better known as a T-quarterback at Gainesville High than a golfer, Aaron won Athens CC's Crackerland tournament.

Since then he has captured the 1957 and 1958 Southeastern Conference crowns over the same course.

And what's more he does most of his summer practicing at Athens since the old Gainesville course is flooded by Lake Lanier and the new one is not yet completed.

We'd say offhand then that Tommy should be equally as tough at Athens Thursday through Sunday as he was last year at Augusta CC where he beat talented Cobby Ware in the finals.

State Golf Assn. prexy Jennings Gordon of Rome will get the State under way Wednesday with 18 holes of qualifying. Aaron may pass up this chore if he chooses.

Tommy has a date to defend his State Open Crown at Brunswick in mid-August.

Three one-day events highlight this week's golfing menu at East Lake.

First is scheduled Tuesday when 25 juniors vie for three places in the USGA sectional qualifying supervised by George Sherrill. The three successful youngsters will earn spots in the USGA National Junior Championship at St. Paul, Minn., July 30-Aug. 2.

Pairings and starting times for USGA Junior Sectional Qualifying at East Lake Tuesday:

9:00 a.m.—Lewis Corvette, Candler Park, and Bob Schilo, Adams Park; 9:05 a.m.—David Dedra, Druid Hills, and Steve Brown, Decatur; 9:10 a.m.—Ray Monahan, Druid Hills, and Bill Malone, East Lake; 9:15 a.m.—John MacDowall, Cherokee, and Barry Cheatham, Adams Park; 9:20 a.m.—Jimmy Blanchard, Columbus, and Hokey Almand, Candler Park; 9:25 a.m.—Teddy Hayes Jr., James L. Key, and Jerry Sharon, Adams Park; 9:30 a.m.—Dom Scartz Jr., Adams Park, and George Johnson, Atlanta; 9:35 a.m.—Gene Morris Jr., Ansley GC, and Jimmy Chester Jr., Macon; 9:40 a.m.—Jimmy Gabrielsen, Athens, and Tommy Barnes Jr., East Lake; 9:45 a.m.—Murray Calhoun Jr., Columbus, and Joe Segal, Standard T & CC; 9:50 a.m.—Jimmy Allen, Athens, and Wayne Yates, Candler Park; 9:55 a.m.—Mickey McManon, Druid Hills; Richard Wiggins, Sunset Hills CC, Carrollton, and Jerry Greenbaum, Standard T & CC.

Second East Lake shindig is the always popular Mr., Mrs., and Miss tournament set for Thursday.

This event, started by Hal Cook 12 years ago, is now one of the big golfing parties on the club's calendar. East Lake men invite their favorite lady golfing partners to this tourney, which winds up with a dinner dance on the Terrace. The committee in charge will be R. I. Gunnell, chairman; Mrs. Gunnell, Mrs. T. A. Branch Jr., Hal Cook and Mrs. Bert Prather.

The 35th F. Graham Williams golfing outing for architects and architectural draftsmen is slated Friday at East Lake. John Dennis Jr., of Macon, is defending champion in Southeastern architects division.

Jack Cowan of Atlanta defends in draftsman's division. Joe Cooper and Henry Whitehead were co-titlists in the Atlanta architects section last year.

CHIP SHOTS: Ansley's Ewing Pomeroy left Atlanta at 3:30 a.m. Monday for the National PGA Championship which opens at Llanerch CC, Havertown, Pa., Thursday, July 17-20. Ewing plans to get in his first practice round Monday. Bob Hayes, of Macon, is another Georgia entry. . . . Ansley bogey winners were Dameron Black, M. V. Allen, Chick Lineberger and Hugh Estes. . . . In Ansley's three-day catfite tournament, Marion McKinley was the winner, followed by Cissie Hollins and Marie Law. Cecile Godwin won the putts.

Senior Golfers Assn. of Atlanta played its July tournament at Griffin Golf Club Saturday and Sunday. Ken Ford was the big winner with a net 65. Others making the prize list in the field of 56 were Phil Hoard, 67; Jimmy Hewell, 69, Ed Stenz, 69; Jack Woodall, 69, and Ed Harrell, 70.

DETROIT'S AL KALINE WRITHES IN PAIN AFTER WRIST INJURY
Tiger Suffered No Broken Bones, Though, After Being Struck by Charley Beamon Pitch

Kaline Felled, But Escapes Bone Breaks

BALTIMORE (AP)—Al Kaline suffered a bad bruise on the inside right wrist in the first inning of the first game of the Detroit-Baltimore doubleheader Sunday. He was rushed to a nearby hospital, where X rays showed no broken bones.

A Tiger spokesman said Kaline would be out of the lineup indefinitely, depending on how the bruise responded to treatment. Kaline's right arm was packed in ice in the team's dressing room.

Bucs' Baker Injures Knee, May Be Lost

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gene Baker, the Pittsburgh Pirates' regular third baseman, suffered a serious injury to his left knee in trying to field a hit Sunday, and a physician said he may be lost to the Pirates for the remainder of the season.

Baker tripped and fell hard on the knee, rupturing a ligament that attaches the knee cap to the leg, and was carried off the field on a stretcher. He was taken to Jewish Hospital.

Dr. I. C. Middleman, St. Louis Cardinal surgeon who examined the 33-year-old infielder, said the knee would require surgery and would have to remain in a cast for two or three months.

Tigers Take Two, Move Into Second

Detroit Manhandles O'Dell; Fischer Halts Oriole Rally

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Detroit Tigers bounded into second place in the American League race Sunday with a double victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

After edging past the Birds 6-5 in the opener, the Tigers knocked out Billy O'Dell, hero of the All-Star Game, while taking the second 5-3.

Baltimore almost pulled the second game out of the fire in the last of the ninth. They loaded the bases on a single and two walks, but Bill Fischer who hurled the last inning of the first game, came in to get Dick Williams on a force play for the final out.

O'Dell just didn't have it. He left in the seventh for a pinch hitter while the Orioles trailed 4-3.

Oriole pitchers hit three Detroit batsmen. One of the wild flings may prove costly to the Tigers.

Nats Sweep Pair From Stumbling KC

WASHINGTON (AP)—With Camilo Pascual pitching six-hit ball, Washington defeated the Kansas City Athletics, 2-0, in the first game of a double-header Sunday. The Senators then made it a sweep by winning the nightcap, 4-2, on two home runs by Eddie Yost.

John Romonosky, 29-year-old rookie called up last Tuesday from their Class A far mat Charlotte in the Sally League, was credited with the Senators' victory in the second game.

White Repeats at Savannah

Special to The Constitution

SAVANNAH—Despite a 78 on the final round, defending champion Bob White's tournament-long lead stood up here Sunday and he became the third three-time winner of the Oglethorpe Invitational.

White parlayed 69-75-74-78—296 figures into a four-stroke victory over Bill Ploeger of Darien, whose final credentials read 74-73-79-74—300.

White had also won the tournament in 1952. Atlantan Gene Dahlbender and Bob's fellow Savannahan Hobart Manley Jr. are other three-time champions.

A first round 69 gave White momentum that the rest of the field was never able to overcome in the 11th annual event.

CHAMPIONSHIP DIVISION: Bob White, Savannah, 69-75-74-78—296; Bill Ploeger, Darien, 74-73-79-74—300; Jimmy Parks, Jacksonville, 74-74-82-73—303; Alfred Sams, Macon, 75-75-77-77—304; Ted Hewitt, Savannah, 77-76-79-72—304; Johnny Skeadas, Savannah, 74-73-77-82—306; H. A. (Duck) Swann, Macon, 75-76-78-79—308; Hobart Manley Jr., Savannah, 81-72-78-77—308; Joel Finkelstein, Savannah, 76-74-83-76—309; Bob McManus, Savannah, 77-79-78-78—312; Bud Fonts, Savannah, 78-78-79-77—312; Allen Kaminsky, Savannah, 77-75-77-88—317; Tom Jenkins, Savannah, 77-78-78-84—317; Billy Smith, Macon, 80-78-79-80—317; W. Held, Power Lead Attack in 9-4 Tiff

BOSTON (AP) — Cleveland reaped seven unearned runs from a fumbling Boston defense Sunday for a 9-4 victory while recent trade acquisitions Woody Held and Vic Power provided the punch.

Cal McLish turned in a six-hitter for his seventh triumph of the season. Three of the blows were bunched in the Red Sox' three-run fifth inning.

Held drove in five runs with a homer and a single while Power, boosting his average to .328, added two more on a pair of sacrifice flies. He also doubled and singled in three official trips.

Less than a month ago, Held and Power were dealt to the Indians by Kansas City.

For the third straight contest, Boston had first inning horrors and Cleveland capitalized for a quick 4-0 lead.

PIRATE MANAGER MURTAUGH (40) LEANS OVER INJURED GENE BAKER
Kneeling at Right Is Catcher Bill Hall. Other Players Not Identified

Mazeroski, Skinner Help Bucs Shake Cardinal Yoke, 10-8, 8-6

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The hitting of Bill Mazeroski and Bob Skinner produced 15 runs for the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday in a 10-8 and 8-6 doubleheader sweep over their season-long tormentors, the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mazeroski had a perfect 4-for-4 with his 10th homer and three RBIs in the second game. He had six hits, scored four and batted in four during the day. Skinner, who hit his seventh homer in the opener, had five hits, scored three and batted in four for the two games.

In winning the doubleheader the Pirates lost a third baseman — Gene Baker, who ruptured a leg ligament and probably will be out for the season.

Dodgers' Rookies Slap Redlegs Twice

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Cincinnati twice Sunday, turning the trick with five home runs and their two youngest pitchers, Stan Williams and Bob Giallombardo. The scores were 3-0 and 3-2.

Williams, a burly 21-year-old right-hander, struck out 10 and surrendered only three hits in the eight innings he worked in the first game. He gained his fourth victory in seven decisions.

Don Newcombe, traded to the Redlegs last month after seven full seasons with the Dodgers, took the loss, his ninth of the year. He has won only one.

Hillman, Briggs Stop Phils Twice

CHICAGO (AP) — Right-handers Johnny Briggs and Dave Hillman, a couple of bullpen graduates, hurled the Chicago Cubs into the first division of the hot National League race Sunday with 3-2 and 2-1 victories over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Sergeant Captures Lake Lanier Racing

Donald, Bateman, Jerone Excel in Southeastern Meet

By JIM CARSON
Constitution Sports Writer

GAINESVILLE—A 45-year-old Air Force master sergeant from Montgomery, Ala., Sunday captured high point honors in a Southeastern Boating Assn. racing program at Laurel Park on Lake Lanier.

Archie Golsan a water-wise veteran of the racing boat circuit, didn't have a first place all afternoon in the 10-event race. But he was among the top four enough to pile up high point honors for the day and carry home $145 in prize money.

Golsan had seconds in the free-for-all, Class C racing hydroplane and Class C modified hydroplane, a third in the B racing hydro and a fourth in the B modified hydro.

Georgians cashed in on their share of the honors. Ralph Donald of Atlanta, 1957 Southeastern Assn. point champ, pushed his Class B modified runabout to first, and picked up a fourth in the B racing hydroplane.

Harold Bateman of Augusta was first in the A and B hydroplane, and second in the B modified hydroplane.

Other victories were collected by Jack Jerone of Savannah in the B modified hydro and his racing mate, Von Ernst, also of Savannah, in a C modified hydro.

The day was free of any serious accident, but several drivers took a dunking.

On the third lap of the B racing hydro event, Ed Smith of Green Pond, S.C., flipped on the north turn. His boat was struck by one piloted by Dub Parker of Gadsden, Ala., and by the time Parker got to the south turn his boat had taken on water, and he hit the drink. Neither was injured, however.

In a non-classified event called the Fisherman's Special, and run by Gainesville club boater, boats piloted by Bob Elrod and Ed Little, both of Gainesville, collided on the south turn after the finish. This incident gave the crowd its most uneasy moments of the afternoon, but both escaped without injury.

It was the first such boat racing event ever held on Lanier. Though early afternoon rains probably held the crowd down some, those that came from this boat-happy town seemed to enjoy it.

Because of the ideal racing course in waters at Gainesville's Laurel Park, and also due to the enthusiastic support of the sponsoring Gainesville Outboard Club and the city's Park and Recreation Board, the Southeastern Assn.'s championship races will be held here Sept. 20-21.

Berg Wins By Eight; Suggs 2nd

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Patty Berg came home for her first tournament since turning professional 18 years ago and won it by eight strokes Sunday when she took the American Championship Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The veteran redhead shot a four under women's par 72 on her final round to finish with 288 as she left all of her challengers in the wake of a fourth straight round of consistent sub-par golf.

Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., bounced back from her 80 of Saturday to the day's best round with a 71 and took second place with 296.

Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee and Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., tied for third. Miss Rawls shot a closing 74 and Miss Ziske a 75 for 297.

197 Watch Pel Triumph

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Three-run homers by Richie Windle and Frank Leja and a solo homer by Lamar North gave New Orleans a 7-2 victory over Memphis Sunday before 197 fans, the smallest crowd of the season.

Heavy rains and flooded grounds cut the scheduled doubleheader to a single game. Fans had to wait under the stands for three and one-half hours before the rain halted and the grounds could be made ready.

Memphis worked up a 2-0 lead with a first inning run on three singles and another in the second on a homer by Arnold Earley.

Culberson Wins Canton

CANTON — Leon Culberson of Rome captured the Canton Invitational Golf Tournament here Sunday in an extra hole playoff with fellow townsman Bo Brawner.

Culberson, a former major league baseballer, had Brawner two down on the 16th, but his Callier-Country Club mate evened it on 18, forcing a playoff.

DIAMOND DIARY

Most Overlooked: Looks' Ted Wills

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Most players, managers and sports writers applaud the choices for the 1958 Southern Association All-Star squad. "A job well done," they chorus.

Charlie Roberts

However, there always seem to be some highly deserving baseballers left off such teams. We checked around to find out what player or players most people close to the scene felt had been done the most injustice by being omitted.

Wills, even before three-hitting the Crackers Friday, had the second best earned-run average in the league (2.36). He had compiled a 10-7 won-lost record going into Sunday's games, a most deceptive record at that.

Wills, who leads the Southern in strike-outs, was the victim of some frightful early-season fielding by the Lookouts. And as Johnny (Red) Marion, his manager, points out, "Wills lost two 1-0 games and a pair by a 2-1 score."

Of course, many fine players with exceptional credentials were left off—like Little Rock's Bob Davis and Charlie Secrest, New Orleans' Jackie Reid, Chattanooga's Jesse Levan and Atlanta's Bruce Barmes, to name a few.

PREDICTION OF WEEK—That Chattanooga will finish in the first division unless Washington calls up some of the Lookouts' better pitchers.

DIAMOND DUST—Atlantan Larry Osborne went on a 13-for-19 hitting binge for Charleston, having 7-for-7 in a twin bill against Indianapolis en route, included 3 doubles and a home run. The ex-West Fulton high star rapped 8 straight hits and was on base 10 consecutive times. He cracked 2 homers in 3 trips off Wichita's Juan Pizarro for a 3-0 victory. Ex-Cracker Buddy Hicks helped him mightily in one melee, bashing a 3-run homer, his first in 48 games. Hicks then belted another in his next outing. . . . Pizarro was the only Wichita player picked on the American Association All-Star team, but manager Ben Geraghty added Ray Shearer and Red Murff, as was his prerogative.

Jim Pyburn was hospitalized for arm trouble. He made his own July 4 fireworks with 5 hits in 8 trips to help Louisville to a twin-bill sweep past Indianapolis. . . . Jerry Davie is 11-0 for Charleston, tying Carlton Willey's 1957 record. His teammate, ex-Southern bat king Stan Palys, hit in 13 of 14 games after returning from bench exile and helped in a 7-game winning streak on the road.

Old Satchel Paige mounted the hill 4 times in 7 days for Miami. . . . Ex-Ga. State Leaguer Willie McCovey is hitting .314 for Phoenix. . . . Toronto's Rocky Nelson has 26 homers and is ahead of the pace set by onetime Cracker Red Wingo when he set the club record at 34 in 1922.

Memphis' Bill Slack has pitched in 45 games and is only .21 short of the record 66 by Pete Modica of Nashville. . . . Before Memphis exiled Doug Hubacek to Allentown, a clubhouse thief lifted $80 from his wallet at Rickwood Park. . . . Bandits still prowl the West, too. Clubhouse bandits robbed Pueblo players of $800.

Ken Bryant, Rome, Ga., boy a year removed from The Constitution's All-Star game, lashed the key hit in a Hobbs victory in the Sophomore League. . . . Topeka, loaded with ex-Crackers, won 13 of 17 in one stretch.

EX-CRACKERS ON PARADE — Ev Joyner celebrated the Fourth with a 4-for-4 for Omaha, batting in 3 runs in a 7-6 loss to Denver. . . . Wichita's Vic Rehm, helped by Dick Littlefield's tips on control, four-hit Louisville and didn't walk a batter in a 1-0 triumph. He has a classy 2.56 ERA, a 7-2 record and has allowed only 72 hits in 102 innings. . . . Don Nottebart upped his record to 3-3 with a five-hit, 5-0 victory over Charleston for Wichita. Red Murff got the last two batters out for him.

Gene Mauch's Minneapolis club has been blanked 12 times for a club record, and made 2 runs or fewer in 27 of its first 39 defeats. . . . Connie Ryan, managing Seattle, was thumbed by ump Chris Pelekouda before a game started. . . . Columbus pilot Clyde King fined Cholly Naranjo $10 for missing a bunt sign, and the pitcher paid off with a milk bottle full of pennies. (Note to Crackers: Maybe Buddy Bates' $5 fines aren't so stiff after all).

Dale Hendrickson is 10-5 at Austin, where Dick Sinovic has slumped to .316. Terry Fox is 2-2 for the same club, both wins being shutouts. . . . Fred Martin succeeded Davey Williams as Dallas manager.

John Stokoe is 5-3 with a 3.44 ERA at Boise. Wayne Cummings' 3 hits sparked Cedar Rapids to a victory over Winona in the 3-I.

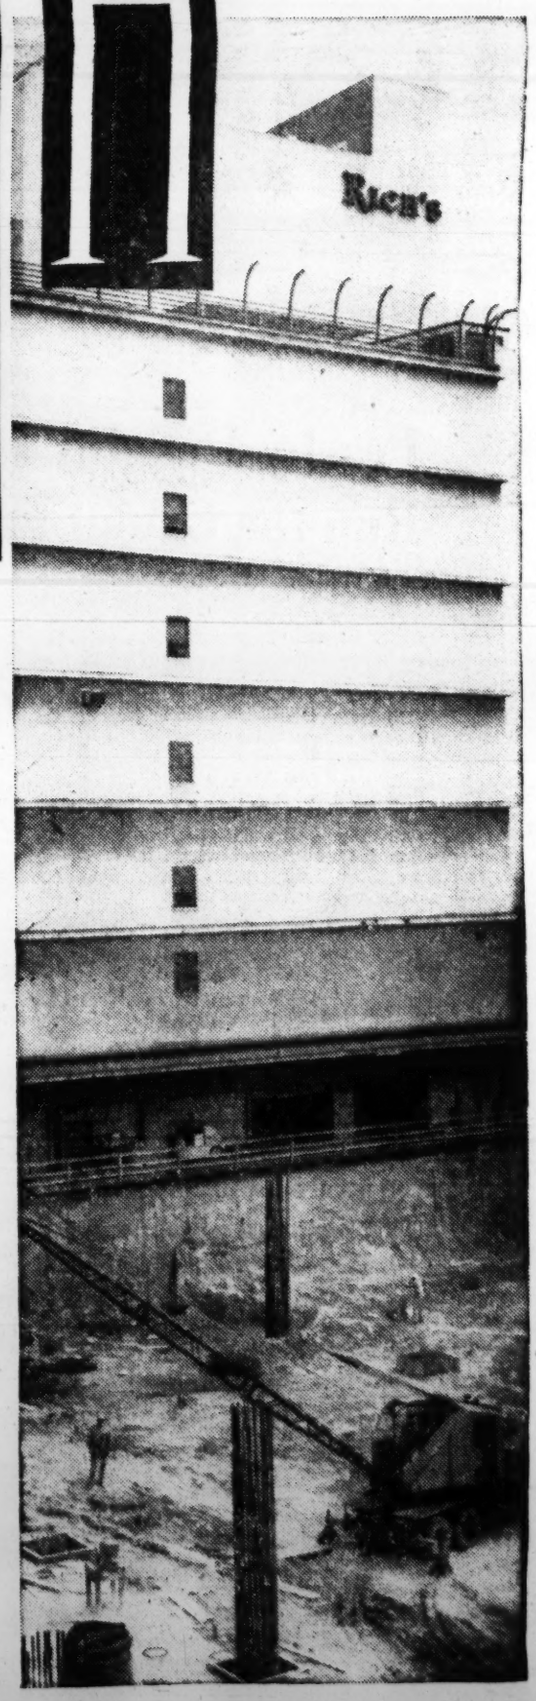
RICH'S

A SOUTHERN INSTITUTION SINCE 1867.

...building ahead with the SOUTH



Reconfirming a long-held confidence in the progress of the South, Rich's is now embarking upon its biggest building program since World War II. Shown above, and located at the corner of Spring and Hunter Streets, will be Rich's new service building, 120,000 square feet of warehouse space, beginning to rise to Spring Street level. It will be mechanized to speed the flow of goods to Rich's and to you. Its roof will provide parking for 300 to 400 cars right down town . . . with a new entrance directly into the Plaza Floor of Rich's. In the Store for Homes, new escalators are being installed for greater convenience! At Lenox and Peachtree, the South's most fabulous regional shopping center is fast becoming a reality . . . and it's here that Rich's is building their first suburban store . . . the most beautiful, most modern South of New York.

So Rich's builds ahead with the South, an area growing faster than the rest of the nation in manufacturing production . . . with Atlanta itself, the 8th largest communications center in the world! Advancement in education, in the arts, in every area open up vast new horizons for the South and its people . . . and Rich's is proud to be an integral part of it all.

Sack Will Get New Name Is Latest Fashion Rumor

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER
Constitution Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—If you can recall the childish breathholding with which you watched big sister trigger a jack-in-the-box, you know what it's like here as the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute begins lifting the lid on fashion for fall.

The first collection has yet to take the runway but fashion minds are clicking with rumors. First you hear that sacks are gone with the wind and next you hear that sacks have a head wind that will blow them right on into fall—only the name will be changed.

Of course, some warning signals are already out and they sound as though fall may be a fashion season with an election-year flavor—the people's choice and may the best style win.

American designers are reported to have made their deepest bow in years to their French and Italian colleagues. But they are also reported to be giving ample evidence of independent thinking—heeding some of the grass-roots protests from husbands and taxi drivers as well as many women.

BAGGY OUTLINES OUT

The word is out that baggy outlines, bizarre, outrigger effects and maternal middles have been voted out by "shapes with shape," definitely anatomy-conscious even at a respectful distance.

Designers who looked at the French trapeze and Italian bubble outlines, and liked what they saw, are said to have translated these revolutionary shapes into clearly enunciated Americanese, editing and distilling so that they pass the what-does-it-do-for-me and will-my-husband-like-it tests.

The stress for fall will be on the softly full, high-waisted silhouette echoing the Directoire fashions of early Napoleonic time, and the front-fitted, flared-back and full-skirted fashions reflecting the time of Madame de Pompadour. Both of these themes were launched last season—now it's full steam ahead, it seems.

WAISTLINE RETURNS

The bosom and the waistline, mourned as lost, will be visible and emphasized, with the bosom rounder and more natural, the waistline placed high as a rule, very low at times and sometimes where nature put it.

The costume look may be the keynote to a fashionable fall as all collections are said to show coats and dresses designed to be worn together. A suit may seldom appear without its own blouse to match the jacket lining. Most day dresses will have their jackets, and the jackets are often fur-trimmed or fur-lined.

The casually cut dress, an important Americanism, is going to be seen in magnificent and extravagant fabric; warp-printed satin, cut velvet, gold lame or gold-patterned brocade—collared with sable, chinchilla or black mink.

BANNER SEASON

It may be a banner season for patterned fabrics—more flower prints but unmistakably winter flowers (deep, vibrant, hothouse bouquets of unreal size and coloring) lots of plaids and checks, paisley designs and embossed patterns.

Colors will be as intense as ever but in a deeper, mellowed and less staccato range. There will be almost no pale pastels.

This is the talk being buzzed from editor to editor. Tomorrow the guesswork will be gone because the jack-in-the-box will have popped its lid.

Take Off 2nd Layer Of Solid Fat

By IDA JEAN KAIN

In reducing, it is enormously helpful to know what to expect. It is particularly important to know how to budge the second, solid "layer" of fat. While fat doesn't plank on layer upon layer like devil's food cake, still, in taking off weight, it almost seems that way. The first fat to come off is soft, easy-to-lose pounds. The second "layer" is the solid fat that has a more normal water content.

After a fast initial weight loss, there comes a lull in losing that can tax your patience to the utmost—unless you are forewarned. This standstill period is normal and to be expected. Be prepared. You might even pick up a pound or two—despite your low calorie diet. But hold on, don't jump to the conclusion that dieting has come to "agree" with you and that you might as well give up.

In general, the more the excess, the faster you can expect to lose during the first "round" of your reducing bout. This is true for the reason that more of the fat is apt to be of the soft, watery type. After the soft fat has been lost, your rate of weight loss will not be more than a couple of pounds per week.

Tobe Says

Violet Dress Forecasts Fall

If you are buying a colored chiffon cocktail or dinner dress for late summer wearing, why not consider one in a wonderful shade of violet? It would be a real foretaste of fall, for the whole gamut of ultraviolet colors is going to be much in fashion later.

The new silhouettes seem to have been designed expressly for summer chiffons. The full shirred Empire chiffons are as young and charming as can be. And the relaxed princess body dresses with back panels—either floating or caught under the hem harem style—may be worn by almost any type of figure.

New Arrival

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fortune announce the birth of a son, John William Jr., on June 30. Mrs. Fortune is the former Juanita Fowler of Lawrenceville.

Georgia Rainbow Delegates Will Attend Seattle Meeting

A tour of Ranier National Park and a boat trip to British Columbia with a barbecue at the end of the journey will be on the out-of-sessions schedule for Georgia delegates to the Supreme Assembly, international meeting of the order of Rainbow for Girls in Seattle July 19-25.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Gooch of Atlanta will be the adults accompanying delegates Jackie Harmon, Atlanta, grand worthy advisor; Peggy Stepp, Gainesville, past grand worthy advisor, and Andrea Cochran, Smyrna, who won the all-expense paid trip with her winning essay and a proficiency test. Mrs. Gooch is state supreme inspector for the Rainbow.

The Georgians will give reports on the work of the state's 41 assemblies with a membership of over 3,000.

A highlight of the Seattle conclave will be the closing banquet, when Mrs. Leta Sexson, international head of the organization and wife of the Rainbow founder, will be guest speaker.

Peachy Delights for All the Family Run the Gamut From Pie to Sherbet

By VIRGINIA DYSARD
Constitution Food Editor

Peachy delights to serve the family can run the gamut from the simple, fresh peach cocktail, in which the diced fresh fruit has merely been dashed with fresh lemon or orange juice, to desserts in the old-fashioned tradition.

Typical of the latter is old-time fresh peach crumb pudding. In this, peach quarters, mixed with sugar and flour and sprinkled with butter crumbs, are baked until peaches are oozing tender and crumbs golden brown

On the lighter dessert side is a "taste teaser" of fresh peach buttermilk sherbet. The sherbet is refreshing with a mystery flavor provided by the combination of fresh peaches and buttermilk.

While fresh peaches are tempting to the eye and palate, they are also contributing nutrients that are needed during energy-draining hot weather. This pretty fruit is generous in vitamin A, which boosts vitality and makes for bright eyes and sound teeth.

TEMPT EYE

Peaches also contain vitamin C, fruit sugar, niacin, riboflavin, and other minerals and nutrients in health proportions. And its low calorie count endears it to pound fighters because, for all its sweetness, a medium-sized peach counts only 46 calories.

OLD-TIME PEACH CRUMB PUDDING
Capitalize on the Season's Plenty With Peach Dessert

OLD-TIME FRESH PEACH CRUMB PUDDING

18 medium fresh peaches (4 lbs.)
1 cup sugar
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup butter or margarine
Sliced fresh peaches for garnish

Peel and cut peaches into quarters. Combine ½ cup of the sugar and 3 tablespoons of the flour and mix with the peaches. Turn into a 10x6x2-inch baking dish. Mix the remaining sugar and flour. Add butter or margarine and cut it to crumb consistency. Sprinkle crumbs over peaches. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 1 hour or until peaches are tender and crumbs are brown. Garnish top as desired with sliced fresh peaches. Makes 8 servings.

FRESH PEACH AND RASPBERRY COMPOTE

¾ cup sugar
1 cup water
⅛ tsp. salt
1 slice fresh lemon
3 cups (1½ lbs.) sliced fresh peaches
1 cup fresh raspberries

Place sugar, water, salt and lemon in a saucepan. Mix well. Bring to boiling point. Add peaches, cover and cook 5 minutes or until tender. Remove from heat. Cool. Wash raspberries and add while syrup is warm to cook them slightly. Remove lemon slice before serving. Makes 6 servings.

FRESH PEACH SAUCE

2 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
⅛ tsp. salt

Mix peaches with lemon juice and put through a sieve. Measure puree (there should be 1 cup). Add sugar and salt and mix well. Chill. (This sauce thickens after standing). Serve over ice cream, cake or pudding.

OFFICERS OF 1958-59 DEBUTANTE CLUB GET SET FOR BUSY WINTER

Judy Brantley, Tallulah Morton, Virginia Nichols, Tila Farrell

Mrs. Barker, the former Virginia Barrett, presided over the organizational meeting, assisted by Miss Sallie Murphey, vice president of the 1957-58 Debutante Club. After the election of officers, the new club voted to limit the individual parties for each deb to three. The girls will be first presented as a unit at the Piedmont Driving Club's annual Hallowe'en ball to be held on Saturday evening, Nov. 1, and they planned to give their one big ball of the season at the Driving Club on Friday evening, Dec. 26.

The debs voted to appear at both balls in traditional white, wearing floor-length formals and long white gloves.

Mrs. Barker announced the establishment of a permanent debutante register for the listing of future possible debutantes recommended by past members. Two copies of the register were made and one was turned over to the secretary, Miss Nichols, and the other to the advisory committee, composed of mothers of presidents of the past three clubs and the mother of the current president. Mrs. Barker's mother, Mrs. Howard Barrett, represented the advisory committee at the meeting.

Before adjournment, the new club voted to extend invitations to four additional girls. The two of the four who had been contacted and had accepted were Mary Ann Lindgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Lindgren, and Mary Crook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Crook.

Miss Retta Shoun Wed To John Webster Kern

The Cathedral of Christ the King formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Retta Clark Shoun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray C. Shoun, to John Webster Kern, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kern, at a late afternoon ceremony solemnized on Saturday.

The Rev. Father John Mulroy officiated at the nuptial service which was followed by a reception at the Piedmont Driving Club, with Mr. and Mrs. Shoun as hosts.

Mr. Shoun gave his daughter in marriage, and she was attended by her sister, Mrs. Walter C. Stanton Jr. of Lewisburg, W.Va., as matron of honor, and her small niece and namesake, Retta Stanton, as flower girl.

The bride's gown of gardenia-white peau de soie featured a bodice of Alencon lace and a chapel-length train. Her illusion veil cascaded from a Juliet cap of matching lace and extended to cover the train. The bride carried a small bouquet of valley lilies.

Mr. Kern chose his father as his best man. Serving as ushers were Robert Norwood, Julian E. Ransom, Richard Langston, William D. Young, Robert A. Brown Jr., P. B. Burdett and James A. Anderson of New Orleans.

Miss Sally Grant and Mrs. Charles E. Bowen kept the bride's book at the reception.

Mr. Kern and his bride left for a wedding trip to Nassau. Upon their return they will establish residence in the Roswell Court Apartments.

Nancy Dowis To Fete Sorority

BEAUTIFUL PROTECTION WITH KOVER-LUM—Above attractive home, residence of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bowen, 616 Darlington Rd., NE, sparkles with new Kover-Lum aluminum siding, applied by Atlanta Roofing Supply Co., 66 Fifth St., NW. To learn more about Kover-Lum, call TR. 4-9727. More details in accompanying story.

Long-Lasting 'Kover-Lum' Atlanta Roofing Features

Designed to "stay beautiful forever," new Kover-Lum insulated siding is fast taking its place as one of the most popular home beautification and modernization materials ever introduced in Atlanta.

Announcement of the evergrowing preference for Kover-Lum comes from Frank J. Rowland, president of Atlanta Roofing Supply Co., 66 Fifth St., NW, distributors. He said that numerous homes in Greater Atlanta already have Kover-Lum siding, and more are being applied daily.

The new Kover-Lum actually gives the home owner two sidings for the price of one. Developed by the U.S. Aluminum Siding Corp., Kover-Lum is composed of Reynolds Aluminum and Armstrong Temlock weatherboard bonded into one. Kover-Lum is then colorized with fire-baked enamel so that it retains its sparkle permanently.

Kover-Lum is dent resistant because of a mixture of alloyed aluminum backed up with Armstrong Temlock Asphalt impregnated weatherboard. It is strengthened with manganese for hardness, toughness and extra durability, and titanium, giving it fortification of paint and color. There are many favorite colors, including sparkling white, rich yellow, pastel green, stately gray, velvet cream, coral pink, and sky blue.

In addition to new Kover-Lum, Atlanta Roofing Supply Co. also offers asbestos siding, either straight or wavy-line design.

All jobs undertaken by the Atlanta Roofing Supply Co. are performed with particular attention to the finer details of home beautification. No job is considered finished until the home owner has received full satisfaction.

Make a note now to get your "home improvement program" under way without delay. Call TR. 4-9727, write or visit Atlanta Roofing Supply Co., 66 Fifth St., NW. Mr. Rowland announces that easy terms are available.

'Relax on a Quality Mattress From McDaniel'

The McDaniel Mattress Co., recognized as one of the oldest and largest mattress renovators and makers of custom-built mattresses in the South, is now featuring prompt service to customers from their large quarters at 634 Whitehall St., SW, corner Stewart.

Under the supervision of Henry Weir, a man with more than 35 years' experience in this field, the McDaniel Mattress Co. offers all types of beds to suit individual requirements. "Many persons can do themselves great harm with a mattress that is lumpy, worn and sagging," stated Weir. "Our business—the only business we're in—is helping folks to get their rightful quota of comfortable, relaxing sleep."

Weir also announces the McDaniel Mattress Co. easy payment plan. If your credit is good, they will arrange terms to suit your budget so that you can enjoy sleeping on a fine custom-made McDaniel mattress as you pay for it. Be sure to inquire about this payment plan.

Since it was first established, McDaniel Mattress has grown and expanded steadily. Today, visitors step into large airy showrooms, where you can see the various types of mattresses on display. Make your own preference known, this firm serves individual families, hotels and motels from the modern quarters at 634 Whitehall St., SW, corner Stewart avenue.

The McDaniel Mattress Co. does all types of renovating, as well as building new beds of all sizes and styles in their modern plant. They feature foam rubber mattresses which will give you more relaxing comfort for years to come.

A visit to McDaniel Mattress Co. dramatically illustrates how its officials and specialists are constantly working for the healthful slumber of the people in this area. You can choose from a wide selection of Hollywood beds, Bahama beds (with both rubber and innerspring mattresses) and "High-Riser" beds (four beds in one) . . . all beautifully styled and custom-built.

Careful attention to details is a feature of their work. For instance, you will note the handled bases of these beds, which means greater strength and longer wear. For those who prefer box springs or innersprings, McDaniel Mattress Co. has a complete display in their showroom, ready for immediate delivery.

The out-of-the-ordinary sleeping problems are also handled by McDaniel Mattress Co. They build king-size beds on order and will build beds to your specifications.

The McDaniel Mattress Co. renovates and recovers cushions and box springs. This concern has a large crew of trained and experienced mattress workmen and guarantees complete satisfaction on all jobs.

Drop the McDaniel Mattress Co. a card at 634 Whitehall St., SW, if you live out from Atlanta, and they will visit your locality for pickup and delivery service. Contact them and they will tell you the day and time they will visit your community and can serve you at that time. Make sure that only the authorized truck with "McDaniel Mattress Co." on the sides picks up your mattress. The telephone number is JA. 3-8526.

She'll Be a Girl, Brother Guesses

PELLA, Iowa (AP)—Four-year-old Mark Wesselink, who has two older sisters and was hoping for a baby brother, expressed keen disappointment when the news came that he had "a new baby sister."

"Oh, shucks," Mark complained, "I suppose she'll grow up to be a girl, too."

Beck & Gregg Distributes 'Arctic Boy' Portable Coolers

De luxe "Arctic Boy" portable water coolers, distributed in this area by Beck & Gregg, and by other prominent distributors throughout the Southeast, are recognized as the only coolers on the market with hot-dipped galvanized inset and lined with "Sparkleen" plastic.

Manufactured by the Schlueter Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis, Mo., producers of first-grade metal-ware products for more than 50 years, Arctic Boy coolers meet all governmental agency specifications. The hot-dipped inset is galvanized after forming to eliminate chips and cracks in the zinc coating. Galvanizing after forming fills the lap joint completely and eliminates possible leaks, corrosion points and dirt catchers.

This widely known cooler is built to take plenty of rugged use on construction jobs, mines, in oil fields, warehouses—in fact, everywhere men work. The Arctic Boy is ideal for hunters and fishermen, too. The Sparkleen plastic liner is absolutely non-toxic, odor-and-taste-free!

In addition, this highly popular portable cooler has such features as a solid brass spigot to give long, trouble-free service . . . 20% more insulation space than ordinary coolers on the market . . . and the widest top openings as compared with other coolers.

"ARTIC BOY COOLER IS RUGGED"—Discussing features of the sturdy Arctic Boy portable water cooler are, left to right: J. J. Autrey, vice president of Beck & Gregg; Reid H. Cox, head of Reid H. Cox & Co.; Tom T. Flagler, president of the Flagler Co., construction firm (seated), and Scott Hudson III, executive of the Cox firm. See story for details on Arctic Boy coolers.

Reid H. Cox & Co., 710 Peachtree St., NE, is the manufacturers' representative for Arctic Boy Coolers in the Southeast. The line of Arctic Boy Coolers will be featured at the forthcoming Beck & Gregg Fall Merchandise Show, to be held in Atlanta at the Biltmore Hotel, August 31-Sept. 3.

Architects and Engineers Hail 'Coolair' Fans

Industry is being warned of a shortage of skilled workers. As we begin to emerge from a recession, this is becoming more and more a matter of concern, and forward-looking executives are doing something about it. The reason for the shortage is the low birth rate during the '30s.

Management is building up in every possible way toward working conditions so favorable that workers will want to stay, and so added labor and clerical forces can readily be recruited when needed. Hence "fringe benefits" are being studied and put into force.

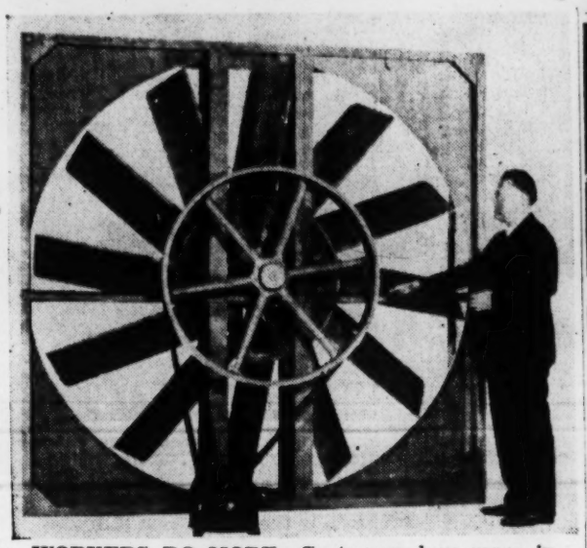
A benefit which could hardly be called "fringe" is breeze-conditioning in factory, shop, office or store. In whatever way the air may be chilled in such places, true bodily comfort depends on air moving at about two miles per hour. And that means fans of big enough capacity to move out the hot, stale air, and at the same time produce a two-mile-per-hour breeze.

The human body has its own, built-in cooling system, which needs only a breeze to function. And when people are thus normally cooled, they are more contented, more cheerful — and much more efficient as workers. And that is true of customers as well.

If big fans were costly, management might think twice about installing sizes sufficient to do the job. But the famous makers of Coolair fans have, by mass production methods, brought down the cost of manufacture. And by thorough research they have made it possible for low-cost fans to do the work.

The Coolair fans range from window fans to cool a few rooms in a home, on up to the sizes made to cool plants, auditoriums, laundries, etc.

Breeze-conditioning is recognized by the leading architects and engineers of this region, and leading dealers are prepared to help you choose the most efficient Coolair fan to fit your breeze-conditioning situation. You can view an interesting exhibit of Coolair fans at the Architects and Engineers Institute Building of Building Ideas, 230 Spring St. And a call to the factory representatives for Georgia and Tennessee will being licensed engineers to help you. These are on the staff of John L. Underwood Co., 555 Whitehall St., SW, Atlanta. Phone MU. 8-7878.



WORKERS DO MORE—Customers buy more in fresh, moving air. No matter how cool an enclosure may be, it is not comfortable to occupants unless there is a two-mile-per-hour breeze to make them feel invigorated, cheerful. Keep your workers on thier toes, and your customers in a buying mood. Breeze-condition for real summer comfort with Coolair fans. See headline story on this page.

Celestine Sibley

Mr. Jim And Progress

Well, progress is finally catching up with Mr. Jim Whitley. And at the age of 85 he's taking it a lot more gracefully than I would in his place.

You remember Mr. Jim. He's the old gentleman who lives just over the Chattahoochee River in Cobb County in a clay-chinked log cabin which his grandfather, John Whitley, built in 1842 when Atlanta was still a muddy crossroads called "the Terminus."

Except for some years when he worked on the railroad Mr. Jim hasn't traveled far from the cabin nor materially changed his way of life from the way it was lived by his father and his grandfather. He believes in making what he uses and so far as possible growing what he eats.

And when you stand in the doorway of his cabin it's as if you had stepped back into another century. His corn patch is close by for easy tending. He has a stack of hand-riven shingles handy to replace any faulty ones among the weather-blackened and lichened old shingles on his roof. He has a good stack of stove wood, cut last March to last him all year.

As far as you can see there's no sign of habitation, just woods, the well house and a couple of old log out-buildings. Crickets sing in the tall grass and the old clock on the mantel strikes the hour and if it weren't for an occasional jet plane roaring over you might easily believe that you had somehow stumbled into the past.

"They're building a road down yonder," Mr. Jim said, indicating the direction with a fine stream of tobacco juice and then wiping his beard and mustache with the back of his hand. "People's coming in. A couple of little children came to see me the other day and told me their folks were over there clearing off land to build a house."

I felt sad. Unchanged for 118 years and now they'll be coming in, bringing their electric lines and water mains and sewage pipes. Phones will be ringing and television blatting and the old woods road down which Old Man John Whitley and his son, David, used to drive the cows they won at the shootings at Vinings, will be taken over by cars and trucks.

All these years Mr. Jim has resisted the efforts of his children to make him move to town. He has clung tenaciously to his independence, taking pride in being able to do single-handedly such "two-man jobs" as digging his well. When he has wanted music he has played one of the fiddles he made himself, ignoring completely the talking machine a peddler palmed off on him many years ago. ("It's here somewhere . . . if the dirt-dobbers ain't toted it off.")

Now change has come. I'm glad at least that they're "right clever, friendly" people.

"Can you see that new house from here?" I asked Mr. Jim

He nodded. "If it wasn't for that pine thicket you could. I've walked over there and looked. I think they're going to be able to build without disturbing that old poplar tree. They thought at first they might have to cut it."

"Do you mind much?" I asked.

The old man's faded blue eyes lit up with a sunny smile.

"I don't mind," he said, gently. "They seem like right clever, friendly people. I'll be glad to have them for neighbors."

He went to put some wood in the stove and take a look at the pot of crooked-neck squash he was cooking for his supper. Outside the air after the rain was cool and sweet with the fragrance of the cedar trees along the front path.

South Knows It's Beaten, Wilkins Says

CLEVELAND (AP)—The head of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said Sunday that the Little Rock episode marked the confession of defeat by segregationists.

Speaking at the concluding session of the organization's weeklong 49th annual convention, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, said:

"The use of the ultimate in naked state power—armed state troops—and the call to mob action from no less a place than the governor's mansion, were desperate admissions of the death of what may be called the philosophy of permissive succession."

The Negro leader said Deep South states have given their blessing to private segregation organizations such as the White Citizens Councils.

"Indeed, recent revelations in Louisiana and Georgia confirm that state funds are being made available to these groups," he contended. Wilkins added:

"The Citizens Councils, in turn, have preached and performed in such a manner that mob-minded persons have been encouraged to the intimidation of white and Negro citizens, to beatings, shootings and other forms of personal violence, and to the bombing of homes, schools, churches, synagogues and community centers."

Dollars and Sense

Reserve Board Urged To Control Speculation

By LESLIE GOULD

NEW YORK—Congressman Wright Patman is concerned about speculation in government bonds and wants the Federal Reserve Board to crack down.

The Texas congressman believes "jungle-like activities being carried on by gamblers and speculators" are causing a "loss of confidence in bonds of the United States and a distaste and a disrespect for our government's obligations on the part of conservative investors."

The government bond market has executed a major flip flop. For example, the Treasury 3½s of 1990, which were originally offered at par or 100, three weeks ago had climbed to 106, only to fall to 102 and currently are only slightly above that.

Leslie Gould

The speculation that shoved the whole U.S. government bond market to its recent highs was a belief that the Federal Reserve having reversed itself on tight money would continue down that garden path of cheap money.

In the Government bond market, speculators can play it on the thinnest of margins—five per cent. Government bonds are exempt from the Federal Reserve regulation covering margins on securities. On stocks, margins can be put to 100 per cent—that is all cash—if the Federal Reserve so wills. It has done this. Margins currently are 50 per cent.

So, every so often the smart boys take an extra flyer in governments, taking full advantage of the five per cent margins.

This was the picture three weeks ago. Then, out of the blue there was a published story from Washington that the Federal Reserve had reached a "major turning" in its anti-recession drive and was "slowing" its easy money program.

This set forth widespread reports that the Federal Reserve was about to do another one of its somersaults, and reverse its money policy. This was what it did late last year, after going too far in August in putting the screws on money.

This report upset the government bond market, and the situation got so bad even the U.S. Treasury had to step in and buy bonds to support the market. Margin calls went out and many were unanswered. The speculators, about whom Patman is complaining, took a shellacking.

There shouldn't be five per cent margins for speculation in bonds. A more realistic figure would be 25 per cent. Maybe there shouldn't be any margins, for the government bond market is a rigged one—rigged by the Treasury and the Federal Reserve, if, as and when either or both see fit. In the New Deal days, this was a scandal.

Control of the bond market rests with the Federal Reserve and the Treasury. The former by its policy as to money rates. The latter as to how it handles the federal debt, and that is going to be an increasingly difficult problem as the deficit expands.

Congressman Patman is wrong about speculators influencing conservative investors. Any distaste on their part for government bonds is due to federal policy, particularly that of the Congress, of which Patman is an important and very vocal member.

This country is hell-bent for inflation, and in any long run inflation the losers are the thrifty, including the buyers of government bonds.

South Fulton Will Vote on Annexation

About 100 property owners in a south Fulton County area will decide Wednesday whether to be annexed to East Point.

The residents of the area adjacent to West Washington road received letters of assurance from the East Point City Council that city improvements will be made swiftly in the area if annexation is approved.

The letter claimed that money has been appropriated for extension of the water mains to the area. Existing zoning restrictions will stand unless changed by public hearing.

Fire and police protection and other city services will be started as soon as the voters approve annexation.

Only property owners who owned land in the area before Jan. 1, 1958 may vote in the election, officials said. The election will be held at the Red Oak Health Center from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., July 16.

Mount Fuji Attacked By 10,000 Climbers

TOKYO (AP)—Mt. Fuji, Japan's favorite mountain, was inundated by climbers Sunday. Ten thousand persons, a record number for a single day, climbed to the summit of the famous dead volcano.

July is the favorite month for climbing Fuji and this was the first holiday since university vacations started and the first day of the gay annual Bon festival, dedicated to ancestors.

Police reported one climber was killed when hit by falling rock and another was injured in a fall.

$2 Million Theology Center Expected To Open in 1959

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

Final construction plans for Atlanta's new two-million-dollar Interdenominational Theological Center have been approved, and officials expect to open the center by September, 1959.

The center will be located on a 10-acre tract near Atlanta University.

The center's physical plant will consist of an administration building, dining hall, chapel, library, president's home, 10 faculty houses, a conference hall, a 25-unit apartment for married students, and four dormitories.

The center will combine Gammon Theological Seminary, Phillips School of Theology now in Jackson, Tenn., and the theology schools of Morris Brown and Morehouse Colleges.

Two degrees will be offered: Bachelor of divinity and master of religious education. Year-round courses, including summer school sessions, will be given.

The school's trustees have established a plan to raise a quarter of a million dollars to match a portion of the grant from Sealantic Funds and general education funds, according to Dr. Harry V. Richardson, who will assume the presidency of the center.

Doctor of Year

Dr. H. E. Nash of Atlanta has been named Georgia's Practitioner of the Year by the state's Negro Medical Assn.

Dr. Nash has practiced medicine in Atlanta for over 40 years, including the time he served as a captain in the U.S. Army's Medical Corps during World War I.

Dr. Nash has a son and daughter following in his footsteps as pediatricians in St. Louis, Mo.

Summer Theater

"Tiger At the Gates" will be the final production of the Atlanta University's summer theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The three-day schedule will round out the 25th season for the university's summer theater.

The play will begin at 8 o'clock each evening in Howe Memorial Hall on the Spelman College campus.

Dr. Brisbane To Talk

Dr. Robert H. Brisbane, professor of political science at Morehouse College, will speak on "Political Systems Today and Tomorrow" at the weekly Atlanta University summer school forum to be held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the university.

KEEP WELL

By THEODORE VAN DELLEN

New Hazards Replace the Old

Times change.

Physicians a half century ago had many misgivings about the good old summertime. Fireworks killed 500 and blinded or injured 4,000 children and adults annually. Other mishaps included being gored by animals or bitten or stung by insects.

Trouble with poison ivy, green apples and mushrooms was common. Swimming was risky, summer diarrhea was disastrous, and typhoid was murderous. Streams and lakes were becoming polluted at that time and sanitation did not keep up with industrial progress. Poor refrigeration, inadequate plumbing and contaminated drinking water were the rule.

New hazards have replaced those of the past. Traffic accidents maim and kill more people than firecrackers did.

Otherwise, the modern vacationer faces a minimum of dangers. He seldom gets sick if he drinks safe water and pasteurized milk, and eats clean food. His greatest concern as a rule is to avoid overeating.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—

"Health, like peace, is one and indivisible."

The country is alive with excellent resorts and camping sites. Many advantages accrue to the city child who goes away for the summer. He escapes not only the dangers of the heat but the usual temptations associated with two months of idleness. We are told that at least two children will be killed and eight permanently crippled every day of the so-called carefree vacation months.

The summer camp is a boon to youngsters. The majority maintain standards for health and happiness. The youngster has fun and profits from the experience.

Camps are available also for children with special handicaps, such as diabetes or heart disease.

There are summer camps for oldsters—not many, but more will come into being as they increase in popularity. Elderly persons thrive on a vacation where rest and activity are balanced and geared to fit their needs.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Letters should be addressed to Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, c/o The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta 2, Ga.

GOREN on BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ K J 10 7 4 ♥ A 8 6 4 ♦ K 7 5 3
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South
1 club	?

What do you bid?

A.—This hand has splendid offensive possibilities and may well produce a game in the best suit, though partner may have a below average hand. The best way to portray this strength is by a take-out double. A mere one spade overcall will not do justice to your holding and partner may fail to act with just enough values for your purposes.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ K 10 7 5 3 ♥ A J 10 7 2 ♦ A ♣ A 5
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trp.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite partner's announcement of a mediocre holding we would be inclined to insist upon a game contract. If partner has a preference for one of the major suits there should be a good chance, because of the highly favorable distribution. The suggested bid, therefore, is three hearts. A bid of only two hearts will very likely be passed by partner.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ K Q 8 6 5 ♥ J 9 ♦ J 4 3 ♣ A Q 8
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 club	1 spade	Pass	3 diams.
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite your lack of a heart stopper, a bid of three no trump is recommended. There is nothing to be gained by rebidding spades.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ Q 8 4 ♥ J 6 ♦ K J 9 4 3 ♣ Q 8 5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diam.	Pass
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 diams.	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Two spades. Partner has continued the bidding at a time when he could conveniently pass. His hand therefore must have certain merit. You have your values where they fit best and you should give partner one more chance. He will realize that you have only three spades because at your first opportunity you preferred clubs to spades.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ A 7 3 ♥ K J 10 6 3 ♦ J 10 ♣ K Q 8
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—A strength-showing temporizing bid is in order. While there is no doubt that you have a game, the hand may have greater potentialities, for partner's exact strength has not yet been determined. A jump in hearts is not suitable because the suit itself has not the proper texture. Spades should not be supported vigorously with three trumps. Lack of a diamond stopper bars a jump in no trump. So, by the process of elimination, we choose three clubs, intending to take further action on the next round.

Q. 6—Both sides vulnerable and as South you hold:
♠ 9 2 ♥ J 5 4 2 ♦ A K 9 7 2 ♣ K 10
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	2 hearts	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Four hearts. Partner's vulnerable overcall should be approximately six tricks and your hand rates to produce at least four. A single raise therefore would not be adequate.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ J 2 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ Q 7 5 3 ♣ K J 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	1 no trp.	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trp.	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Partner has described a hand containing six spades and only four hearts. This is clear from the fact that he made a jump rebid in his first suit before showing the other major. The partnership is known therefore to possess eight spades as against only seven hearts, and the proper call is four spades.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"A good book on child psychology will help the parent as well as the child. Old methods of training are not always dependable in this advanced age of learning."

—Article Quote.

What do you say to junior when . . . for several hours he has been . . . as nasty as a sore-tailed cat . . . are you afraid to tell him that . . . you've had enough; or do you say . . . "He isn't feeling well today . . . there's something wrong with him, I'm sure . . . he's running a high temperature."

You think the rascal hasn't heard . . . what you have said, but every word . . . is etched upon his little mind . . . and he remembers you were kind . . . enough to let him get away . . . with murder (as we sometimes say).

To use psychology on him . . . is much like teaching ducks to swim . . . for children, these days, are so smart . . . they have you beaten at the start. . . . Psychology works in reverse . . . and things will keep on getting worse . . . so, what's to do, resort to force? . . . or take a short refresher course?

Her Boy Friend KO's 3 for Wolf Calls

PALERMO, Sicily (UPI) — Antonio Lota doesn't appreciate anyone expressing admiration for his girl friend with wolf calls. Three street-gang youths learned that Saturday night. Lota, a former professional middleweight boxer, knocked out two of them and left the third so groggy he couldn't run away. Police detained Lota on a charge of violence and the youths for disturbing the peace.

NOT SO DEEP

Pamper the Campers? Not in the Deep South

W. A. (Dobby) Dobson, regional Boy Scout executive for the Southeastern United States, said Sunday that the camping trend, in this region at least, is away from "sissy" type camps and toward more reliance on a boy's natural ruggedness when he gets out of doors.

The discussion of camping was brought on by a news release from New York which quoted national Boy Scout leaders that they were fighting an uphill fight against "babying" boys at camps equipped with such conveniences as dish-washing machines, potato peelers, hot showers, deep freezes, air mattresses and even vacuum cleaners.

Troop Camping Best

"Boys going to camp like that might just as well stay home," Dobby Dobson said. "My region has 37 councils and all of them run camps. We are doing our best to promote troop camping, where the boys are under the guidance of their scoutmaster and do all their work for themselves."

Dobby said that there would be about 150,000 boys in the Sixth Region (South and North Carolina, Georgia and Florida) who will go camping this summer. "The first time at camp for a troop may see some mess-hall eating and a few luxuries, but once they hit their second year at camp, we like for it to be more rugged. The whole idea is to build self-relience in boys, and you can't do that with innerspring mattresses and served food," Dobson said.

Dobby pointed out that the reason the Southeast was probably better off in the goal toward more rugged camping was because "we've just been too poor to build luxury camps."

Seems like my first trip to Bert Adams—many, many years ago—was spent mostly peeling potatoes. That's one bit of ruggedness I would forego.

Overboard for Elvis

Clyde Hawkins, manager of the Roxy Theater, wanted to take a poll of Elvis Presley fans during the current showing of Elvis' movie at the Roxy. He put out cards asking for the public's opinion on whether Elvis should just sing, just act or do both. Topping the ballot box was a bigger than life-sized picture of Elvis.

Things were going along smoothly enough until some girl or woman planted a lipstick-rich kiss right across Elvis' mouth on the poster.

That did it. The answers to the questions got written all over Elvis, the box, and when they started on the walls, Clyde took the picture down. Some of the messages to the rock-and-roller were in code. What could these mean: "A-M-R-L-H," or "S-T-S-T-S-A"? One message said, "Did you hear about Jerry Lee? He married his 13-year-old cousin. I'm 13, cousin!"

Some comments were not favorable. One said, "I think you ought to be illegal," and another said, "I want you to stay in the Army."

And some folks say Elvis two years ago couldn't even spell Tennessee, and now he owns it.

Contest Aids Orphans

G. H. Laing of Americus won two pickup trucks in a recent nationwide contest sponsored by Studebaker. One he gets to keep and the other is to be delivered to his favorite charity.

When folks in the "Club 100," a civic organization of South Bend, Ind., where the trucks are made, heard he wanted to give one of the trucks to the Macon Methodist Children's Home, they decided the trucks wouldn't come to Georgia empty. So Mr. and Mrs. Laing and the Rev. W. R. Woodall, superintendent of the home, are leaving Atlanta Monday to go to South Bend and drive back two trucks loaded with clothes and toys for the children in the home.

Karachi Mops-Up Monsoon Damage

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — This capital city was drying off Sunday following five - inch monsoon rains which caused one death by lightning, flooded the streets, ripped up pavements, stalled buses and cars, and knocked out telephone and telegraph lines. But the rains delighted thousands of children who swam in waist - deep pools throughout Karachi.

YOUR STARS TODAY

The greater the obstacle, the more glory in overcoming it; and difficulties are but the maid of honor to set off the virtue. —Moliere.

Daily Guide—This is one of those Mondays when one must make a greater effort than usual to see the bright side and deal with stern realities courageously. Those born in Gemini or Sagittarius had better skip socialactivities as they could be disappointing. Consult with older people and those in authority, take on responsibility willingly, and avoid fatigue. This is the dark of the moon so vitality can be low.

Those born in the last week of April, October, July, or around Jan. 23 may expect a return of some conditions experienced off and on this past year. It could be inspirational, artistic, or confusing, depending on how you are handling this subtle influence. Don't be taken in by others or any condition not fully explained.

Happy Birthday, Cancer! The new moon in your sign coming up this week will give you a little extra energy and activity in the coming weeks, so get busy on personal details after Wednesday. Finances are likely to see-saw.

Be careful in the latter part of this month not to become emotionally involved. Organize your work and stabilize your working routine. Next year personal relationships may be difficult so enjoy social life and being with those you love during the next mew months.

Georgia Got a Jump In Science Teaching

By BOB WOLSENBARGER

Something new has been added to the ABCs in the little red school house.

Since the launching of the Soviet Sputniks underscored the United States' lag in science and mathematics teaching, American educators have sought to step up the teaching pace in those two fields.

In most state school systems, the need to improve science and math teaching methods was not recognized until after the U.S. loss in the satellite race.

Not so in Georgia, though. Ten years ago Georgia educators realized that much science and math teaching was inadequate. The subject matter was too repetitious and students began to lose interest.

"Now Georgia is several jumps ahead of most other states in science teaching programs," Dr. Woolford B. Baker, Emory University biology professor says.

Teaching Georgia public school instructors how to teach the subject was the proper way to teach the students.

From this concept, the idea of a school curriculum building program was evolved. The first workshop of this kind to bolster the existing science and math curricula in the state was established at Emory University in the summer of 1957—nearly four months before sputnik.

At the first workshop, a curricula was devised to coordinate teaching in grades 1-8. There would be no dulling repetition of subject matter. With each grade, more difficult material would be introduced and previous matter would be broadened.

"Every grade would be a new experience for the child," Dr. Baker, head of the Emory workship, said.

Some unbelievable results were reported by workshop students during the past year, Dr. Baker said.

"Youngsters who formerly wouldn't pick up a book became so interested in science through the new teaching methods that they began to hunt through libraries for source material," he explained.

Instead of relying solely on books, teachers were encouraged to use experiments and projects to illustrate their teaching.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Lasting Charm and Beauty In Woman Gifts of Lord

QUESTION: I am a woman with an attractive figure. Is there any reason why I should not dress to show it off? My husband intimates that I dress "sexy" to attract other men. While it is true that other men pay attention to me at a social gathering, I can't see what is wrong in displaying a woman's charms. — T. J.

ANSWER: Has it ever occurred to you that a woman can have other attractive features besides an attractive body? You deserve no credit for nature's endowments, so why should you strut like a peacock over something you have no control over? Strive rather to be a lady in every sense of the word. I have seen women who were not especially attractive physically who could charm a group by their winsomeness and grace.

If you think of yourself as just a beautiful animal, you are bound to neglect the beautification of your mind and spirit. In order to be well-rounded human beings, we must develop symmetrically—not just in one direction. Don't be a proverbial "dumb blonde" (not that all blondes are dumb) but strive to develop your mind by knowledge, and your soul by spiritual grace.

AUNT HET

Not many women get their ideal husband. They take what they can get, but usually they never see one they'd like any better.

Industry-Winning Film Offered

A Georgia-made color film, "Gold Mine on Main Street," a documentary designed to show communities how to sell themselves to industries, is now available for showing through the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce.

Nearly 100 copies of the 26-minute film, produced by Industrial Sound Films, Inc., are now in use and are being shown throughout the nation.

Featuring many scenes shot in Georgia, the film shows how to catalogue local assets, organize for action and develop prospects. Also provided are guidance on negotiations, "follow-through" and maintaining a good business climate.

Special attention is given to recognizing and correcting community liabilities to industrial development, said E. A. Yates Jr., chairman of the chamber's industrial department.

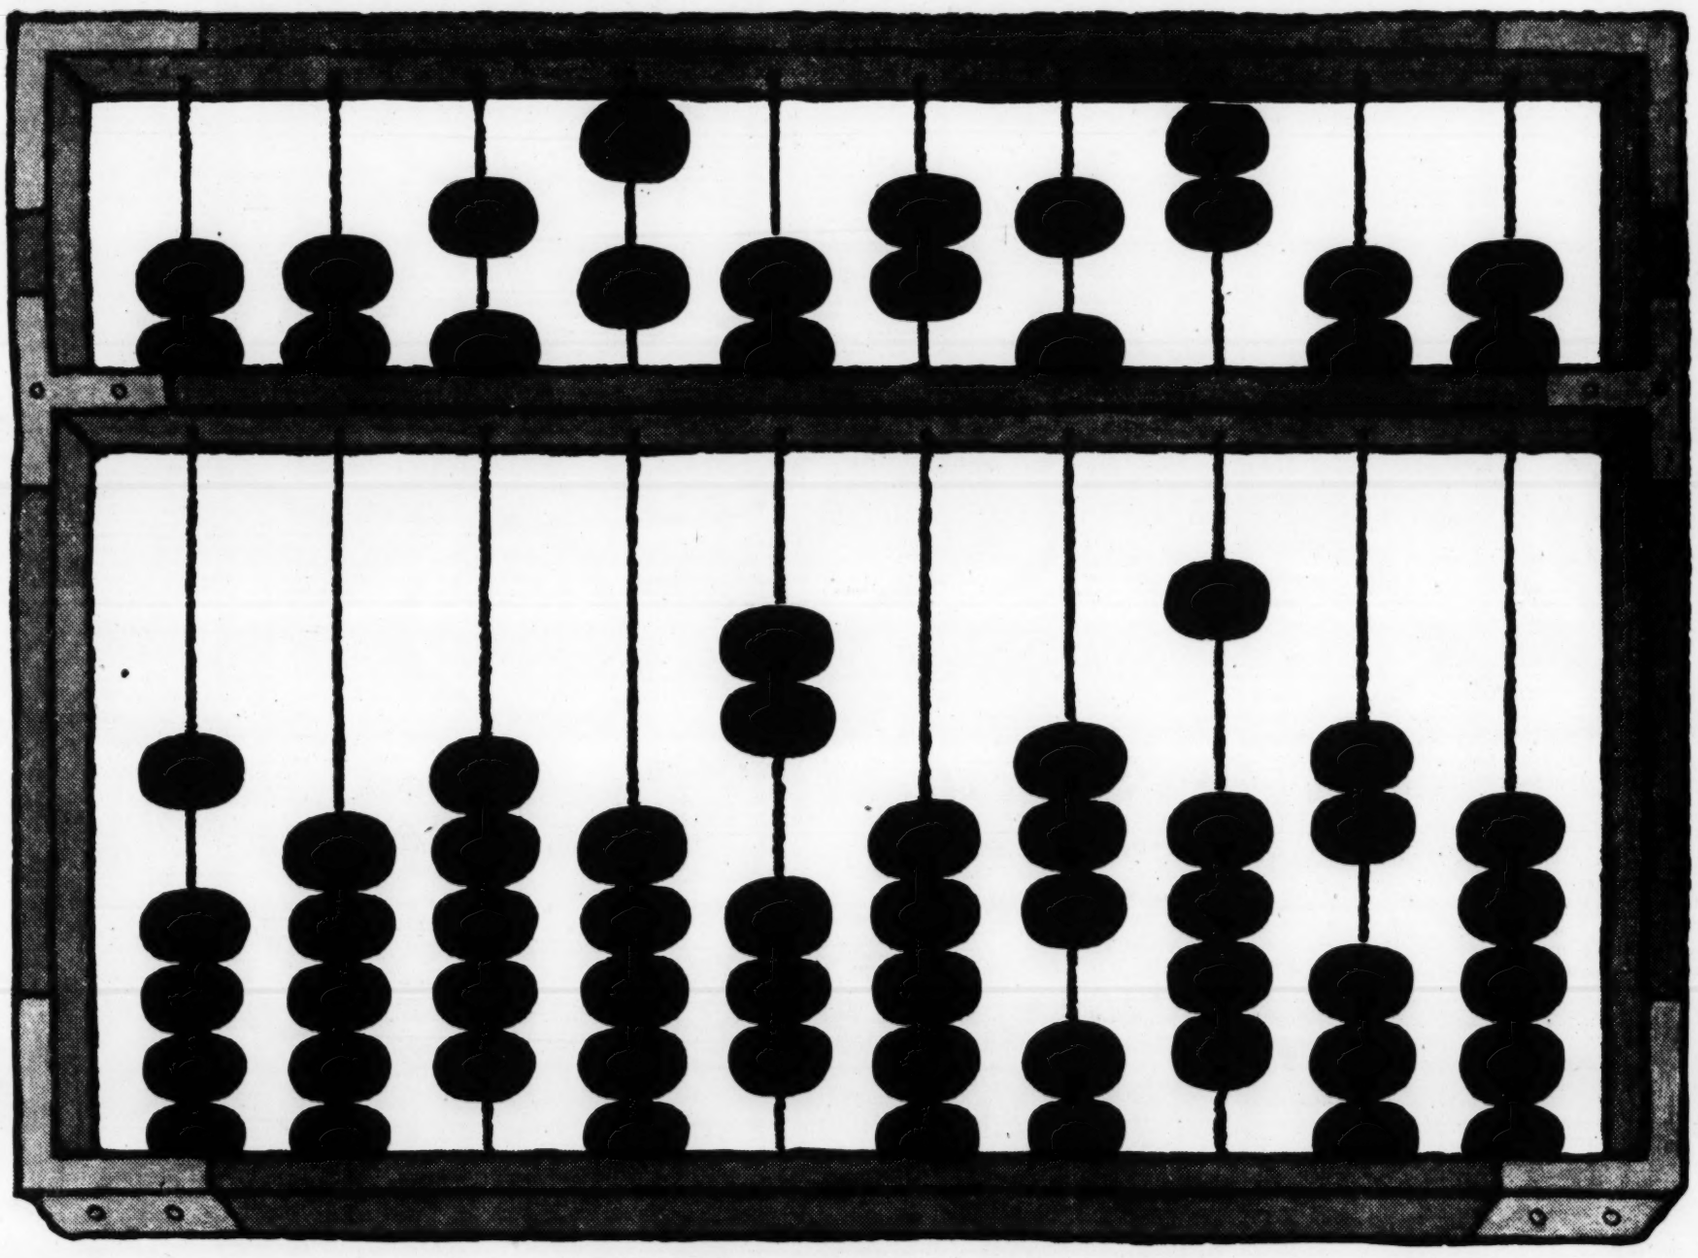
Only NEW GULF CREST gives you such true economy ... for the life of your car



This is an Abacus—an ancient oriental device for counting money. New Gulf Crest is the modern way to save money.

You save gasoline because Gulf Crest protects against formation of deposits that glow, cause misfiring, waste gasoline. Can even cure engines already suffering from such deposits—and often within two tankfuls!

You save dollars on upkeep because Gulf Crest keeps your engine clean—protects against too frequent spark plug replacement and other costly engine servicing.

You enjoy more usable power because Gulf Crest protects your car against power-robbing engine knock and engine roughness. That's why Gulf Crest gives you the maximum, thrifty power that comes from peak performance—even in the hottest '58 engines.

Prove it in your own car: Gulf Crest packs more knockproof power—protects your engine more completely —gives you more lasting economy than any other gasoline you can buy.
